PLANE NEARING 400 HOUR MARK Sheriff Probes Into Mysterious Death Of H. B. Man

BODY FOUND LATE SUNDAY BY OFFICER

Two Long Beach Youths Being Held in Jail As Investigation Is Made VICTIM WELL KNOWN

Conflicting Stories Told About Battle Staged on Highway Last Evening

TWO LONG BEACH youths were being held in the county jail today on suspicion of murder, while deputy sheriffs investigated the finding, last night, of the body of Roy Kirk, 26, Huntington Beach book-keeper, lying on the running board of his car, on the outskirts of Huntington Beach.

Rumors to the effect that Kirk was murdered in a fight with two men on the road and his body left in his machine, cause Sheriff Sam Jernigan to launch an investigation which will include the questioning of two witnesses said to have seen Kirk struck by a man, in a fist fight.

The two men in jail are: Allen Slater, 21, oilworker, of 3504 East 15th street, and Albert D. Nava, 21, 3050 Redondo avenue, both of Long Beach.

Sheriff Probes Jernigan said today that the investigation would last for several days; that he was determined to go into every angle of the man's death, but that he did not know whether the witnesses to be questioned could state that they saw a fight or whether they saw a road fight.

Both Nava and Slater declare that they first saw Kirk's body lying in the road as they were driving towards Huntington Beach from Long Beach. They told officers that they stopped their machine, and put the man in his machine and then drove on.

As they neared Huntington Beach, according to their story, they met Earl Shaffer, Huntington Beach motor officer and informed him that a "man was injured and needed a doctor." They then drove on and Shaffer went to the car, where he found the body slumped over the running board of the machine and not in the car as he reported the youths had told him.

The boys then stopped at a service station where witnesses said they washed blood from their hands and clothing, explaining it by saying they had been in an accident. Several persons took the number of their car and their description and they were arrested at their homes in Long Beach by Sheriff Jernigan and State Traffic Officers Adams and Yoder at 11 o'clock last night.

Drive to Balboa After leaving Huntington Beach, the youths claimed they drove on into Balboa and then returned to Long Beach via Costa Mesa. Both admitted they had been drinking at the time they saw Kirk's body in the road, according to Sheriff Jernigan.

ONE ENDURANCE FLYER KILLED DURING CRASH

Minneapolis Plane Goes in Tailspin After Flying 155 Hours

MINNEAPOLIS, July 29.—(UP)—Capt. P. L. Crichton was killed as he was flying a monoplane, which crashed on a municipal airport here shortly before 6 a. m. today.

The crash came after more than 155 hours of continuous flying during which the performance of the monoplane's motor was pronounced perfect by field attendants. Crichton piloted the plane to within 300 feet of the field, dropped a note to the ground crew and as he zoomed away the craft faltered, slipped into a spin and crashed.

Members of the refueling crew rushed to the plane and found Captain Crichton, his head badly crushed, dead in the cockpit. Haugland, who was believed to have been asleep at the time of the crash, was rushed to Fort Snelling Veterans' hospital nearby.

During the flight, the fourth endurance attempt which Haugland had made, both the Minnesota aviators had vowed their ability to stay up "until those St. Louis fellows come down and then a few hundred hours longer." Both were in the highest spirits late Sunday when they flew back to Minneapolis after a cruise over Buffalo, Minn., Haugland's home town.

Crichton, whose home is in Minneapolis, took off on the record attempt on a last-minute plea from Wold-Chamberlain attendants after Thorwald Johnson, an other Minneapolis pilot, broke off with Haugland over financial difficulties.

But a few moments before the crash occurred Crichton dropped a note to the field asking that the Ace-High, the refueling ship, be sent up with 100 gallons of gasoline. "We don't need oil and have enough fuel until night," the brief message concluded.

Wold-Chamberlain officials began an immediate examination of the Minnesota in an effort to learn the cause of the crash.

At the Fort Snelling hospital, Haugland's condition was reported as "very critical." He suffered a badly fractured skull and serious internal injuries were feared. He never regained consciousness after being taken from the plane.

A score of watchers and attendants were turning away from the field for an early cup of coffee when the Minnesota swooped down and Crichton dropped a note, waving a cherry "good morning" and started the plane into a slow climb.

Then the monoplane appeared to wobble in the air and the pilot could be seen working furiously at the controls. But the doughty plane, which but two weeks ago attained an endurance mark of over 150 hours, could not be controlled.

The ship, silhouetted against the sunrise, seemed to falter and slip backward, then it slipped into a spin and "pan-caked" squarely upon its undercarriage.

The Minnesota was cracked and splintered but far from completely wrecked. The most serious injuries to Crichton and Haugland, apparently were caused by their being thrown head first against the front of the cockpit.

Swimmer Drowns In Undertow At Beach On Sunday

Knocked down by a big wave and carried out to sea by an undertow, Pat Dowd, of Pasadena, lost his life by drowning while swimming near Arch Beach yesterday afternoon.

Dowd, a recent arrival from Ireland, came to the beach with a group of friends. He was not seen after the wave knocked him down and his body had not been recovered today.

The Laguna Beach rescue squad searched for several hours in an effort to locate the man's body.

So far as known Dowd had no relatives in this country. His parents reside in Ireland.

PROPOSED SITE FOR DIRIGIBLE BASE VISITED

Navy Investigating Board Tours Over Santa Ana In Goodyear Blimp

MEMBERS of the navy investigating board inspecting sites for the proposed Pacific coast dirigible base made several trips via air yesterday from Los Angeles looking over the sites they had previously inspected in the vicinity. The aerial inspection was supplemented by ground inspections made during last week and was supposed to give the officers making the investigation important information concerning the air conditions and ground contours.

Trips were made in the Goodyear blimp, Volunteer, which is stationed in Los Angeles, and only a few of the Navy officers could go at one time because of the limited accommodations in the small gondola of the blimp. The "sausage" was operated by Lieutenant Karl Lange.

The "Volunteer" appeared over downtown Santa Ana about 10:35 o'clock yesterday morning coming up from the south and disappearing into the north. The little air bag was making good time as it cruised over the city and could be plainly seen. It was presumed that it was returning to Los Angeles from an inspection of the sites south of Santa Ana that were headed by the board, which is headed by Rear Admiral W. A. Moffatt, at the time of their visit to Santa Ana last Friday.

The personnel of the investigating board went to San Diego last evening, where they will spend several days looking over sites that have been suggested in that vicinity for the location of the base.

GASTONIA, N. C., July 29.—(UP)—Indictments charging conspiracy to murder were returned by the Gaston county grand jury at 11:27 a. m. today against 23 men and women in connection with the death of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholt, of Gastonia.

PARIS, July 29.—(UP)—Mlle. Maryse Bastie, French flyer, who has been trying for months with a light plane to break the world endurance record for women, exceeded the unofficial record today when she landed her 40 horsepower monoplane after 26 hours and 46 minutes in the air.

PEACE REIGNS IN N. Y. PRISON AFTER RIOTING

All But Four of 1700 Convicts Accounted For Just Before Dawn

AUBURN, N. Y., July 29.—(UP)—Machine guns atop the ivy-spangled walls of Auburn prison brought armed peace today and ended the most daring outbreak in any New York state penal institution.

Warden Edgar S. Jennings announced shortly before dawn that all but four of the 1,700 prisoners who attempted to battle their way out of the narrow world of walls yesterday had been accounted for. The four men apparently escaped.

They are: George Small, New York City, serving a 12-year term for second-degree robbery; Joe Carrico, 20, Rochester, serving 20 years for robbery; Arthur, 39, of Nassau county, serving 25 years for burglary; and Stephen Pawlak, of Buffalo, sentenced to life imprisonment as a fourth offender under the Baumes law.

Dawn found state troopers speeding across the roads in search of the four men, while 400 troopers, national guardsmen and police guarded the smoldering ruins of Auburn prison. Two investigations were scheduled in an attempt to pick the ringleaders of the revolt. One was to be conducted by Warden Jennings and the other by District Attorney Ben Kenyon.

Two Killed Death and terror were behind Auburn's walls today, for two convicts were killed, 11 injured and several firemen and guards hurt in the second prison outbreak in New York state in less than a week. Last Monday three convicts were killed when they broke for freedom at Clinton state prison at Dannemora.

Those killed in yesterday's fight were: Joseph Cirrington, who was serving from 7-12 to 15 years for arson. He was received at the prison from Buffalo in 1927.

George Wright, who was serving 15 years for first degree robbery. He was received from Buffalo in 1926.

Warden Jennings declined to re-

OSBORNE TESTIFIES IN MEADOWS TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—(UP)—John E. Osborne, who claims he gave Rush Meadows, former football star, more than $15,000 to secure the release of his son, John R. Osborne, from a federal prison, was to take the stand today as Meadows' trial for grand theft was resumed.

Osborne was an important witness against Meadows last week and it was believed a heavy cross-examination will be undertaken by the defense.

According to Osborne, the money went to Meadows who was to use it in securing prominent lawyers and leading public men to aid in securing a presidential pardon for young Osborne.

GRADUATE OF SANTA ANA HIGH SCHOOL IS NAMED AMBASSADOR OF PEACE TO ORIENT SCHOOLS

Dr. Charles Emanuel Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Martin at 1176 East Chestnut street, Santa Ana, and Professor of International Law and head of the department of political science at the University of Washington, has been appointed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as Visiting Professor of International Relations to certain universities of Japan, China and the Pacific area under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Dr. Martin received his early school education here and was graduated from the Santa Ana high school with the class of 1910. His parents have been residents of this city for the past 28 years and their many friends were today offering congratulations to them for this new success of their accomplished son.

As an ambassador of peace from the universities of the United States, Dr. Martin will lecture before the Imperial universities of Tokyo and Kyoto and Doshisha and Waseda in Japan, and the Linan, Nanking, Shanghai and national universities in China. He will give special addresses before scientific bodies and learned societies. "The purpose of his visit as stated by Dr. Butler is to, 'multiply and strengthen the bonds of intellectual and scholarly understanding and friendship between Japan, China, the countries of the Pacific and the United States, and to perform such academic services as may be found useful and practicable.'

Dr. Martin will arrive in Japan about the first of September and will be engaged with his duties there until the end of the month of November, when he will go to China. It is possible that his mission will carry him to the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand where he will visit the universities of those countries in the interest of continued intellectual co-operation with the United States. He is now visiting professor of international relations at the University of Hawaii for the spring and summer terms.

The mission of Dr. Martin is in keeping with the policy of the Endowment to send men of administrative and scholarly distinction to the different regions of the world as interpreters of American life, civilization and institutions.

Dr. David P. Barrows, formerly president of the University of California, was sent on a similar mission to the universities of Latin America, and Dr. Henry Suzzallo, former president of the University of Washington, was accredited to the universities of the Balkan and Near Eastern countries. Through Dr. Martin's visit, the Endowment extends its program of international contacts into the important region of the Pacific.

The appointment of the peace envoy has already been acknowledged by the diplomatic representatives of China and Japan accredited to Washington. Dr. Chao-Chu

Bromley Backers Promise Flight To Tokio This Season

TACOMA, Wash., July 29.—(UP)—Thousands of Tacoma citizens who spent Saturday night at Pierce county airport to see Harold Bromley take off for Tokyo at dawn, only to be disappointed when his plane nosed over and was wrecked, today welcomed with enthusiasm, the news that the flight would be made this summer.

The committee backing the venture, headed by John Buffelen, prominent Tacoma lumberman, met last night and went into every detail of the end of the first attempt.

"The finances are guaranteed for a second attempt of 'The City of Tacoma' to take off for Tokyo," said Buffelen. "The backers of the flight have absolute faith in our pilot, Harold Bromley, and his plane. We feel he did everything in his power to make the flight a success and stand firmly back of him."

ENDURANCE FLYERS SAY ALL'S WELL

However, Message Dropped Later in Morning Says Two Cylinders Faulty NERVES ARE FRAYED

Aviators "Pan" Newspapermen for Complaining Of Sleeping Facilities

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 29.—(UP)—The story of the amazing flight of Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien, which began 16 days ago, settled today into a clock-like addition of hour upon hour.

Their high-flying "St. Louis Robin" attained the almost incredible total of 392 consecutive hours at 3:17 p. m. today.

"Everything going fine," read the first note dropped by the Robin early today, shortly before the regular morning refueling. In reality it was the second note of the day, but Jackson explained O'Brien "got excited and lost the other note," which stuck in the ship's tail.

"Send us 60 or 70 gallons of gasoline and oil," the message read. "Everything going fine. Oble got excited and lost the other note."

First definite admission that the Challenger motor was weakening came today from Jackson and O'Brien, pilots of the St. Louis Robin.

"We know we have a couple getting weak. Has been that way for the last 100 hours," said a note dropped to the refueling plane and obviously referring to cylinders on their power unit.

Officials at the field, however, were not unduly alarmed by the note.

Drop Message The message read:

"Our oil motor turns up just as much now as when we took off. We know we have a couple getting weak. Has been that way for the last 100 hours. No. 4 and No. 6. Can't tell easy, but we still fly at 1350-1360 revolutions per minute. Easy, not using as much gas, a little more oil. The gaskets on the push rods are leaking. I was sleeping up to the time Oble threw out the note (the first one today). Sure can sleep, just go up and find the temperature

NEW CABINET COMPLETED BY BRIAND TODAY

Efforts to Placate Radical Forces By Inclusion in Cabinet Failure

PARIS, July 29.—(UP)—Aristide Briand, new premier of France, completed his task of forming a cabinet today and will tackle the uncompleted task of former Premier Raymond Poincare with the ministry unchanged.

Efforts to placate the opposition radical forces by including two of their leaders in the cabinet as ministers, without portfolio failed. Edouard Herriot and Edouard Daladier, leading radicals, were invited to join the cabinet as ministers of state (without portfolio) but a party conference vetoed their acceptance.

Herriot previously had accepted Briand's invitation to join the cabinet, subject to his party's approval. He explained that he could join the cabinet only as minister without portfolio, as his duties as mayor of Lyons prevent him from taking full charge of a ministry.

However, a meeting of the radical group was called in the chamber of deputies to discuss the advisability of Herriot and Daladier entering the cabinet. Herriot postponed his departure for Lyons to attend. The conference voted Briand's offer.

MANY VISITORS ATTEND SCOUT CAMP SERVICE

Following flag raising, breakfast and cabin inspection, yesterday morning, the new group of Orange county Boy Scouts at Camp Rock-Ki-Li held their first Sunday morning service. The setting was the top of a hill directly back of the camp in a surrounding of huge pine trees. It was reported by some of the visitors that the service, though informal, was beautiful and inspiring.

Ernest Thacker, as leader, and the Medicine Lodge patrol were in charge of the songs. C. C. Stewart, assistant camp director, and George C. Walker, Scout executive, had part in the services, although for the most part it was entirely in the hands of the boys.

H. Austin, A. Saviers, A. Hebron, P. Brandt and M. Anderson, of the Wild Cat patrol, offered prayer at two times during the morning service. Scripture reading was by Al Gray and Jack Chambers, of the Pine Cone patrol. Talks on the Scout oath were made by Don Gardner, Dean Francis and Wells Roberts, of the Flaming Arrow patrol. Various items of the Scout law were the subjects of talks by Edward Kiser, Walter Martin and Charles Tyner, of the Black Stag patrol; Lee Benson, Loren Lukens and Melvin Durbin, of the Swift Deer patrol; Norman Andrew, Don Skinner and Irving Little, of the Beaver patrol; Jack Preston, William Moffitt and Art Sanders, of the Pine Tree patrol.

veal the names of the 11 convicts who were injured. The other injured are:

The attempted break occurred early yesterday afternoon when the prisoners were assembling for their regular Sunday baseball game.

The guards failed to notice a "trusty" slip into the administration building, followed at a short distance by a band of convicts. The trusty leaped at Merle Osborne, a guard on duty inside the administration building, and overpowered him, while the other convicts who had followed crept up on Milton Ryther, another guard and overcame him.

Keys were seized from the two men and the convicts sprinted to the prison arsenal, opened the gun cases and carried out a supply of fire-arms and ammunition gas bombs. Out into the prison yard ran the armed convicts, tossing pistols, rifles and bombs to their fellow prisoners. Bullets flew and the convicts, bearing down with their superior numbers, were winning the skirmish.

Then two prisoners, who had been left with Osborne and Ryther in the administration building, forced the guards ahead of them and walked out into the prison yard. Shielding themselves behind the guards, the two convicts worked their way to the front gate while guards on the wall withheld fire for fear of hitting Osborne and Ryther. At the gate the convicts hurled bombs at the two guards, temporarily blinding them with a spray of ammonia, and ran through the gate to freedom.

Inside the battle was mounting and out of the melee emerged Warden Jennings as a hero. Gripping a pistol in each hand, the warden, who was an officer in the World war, rallied a band of guards and waged a counter attack against the superior numbers of the convicts. The fury and suddenness of the offensive drove the main body of armed convicts back and they took refuge behind a pile of lumber. Then began guerrilla warfare, with guards on the walls sniping at the entrenched prisoners, eventually forcing them to surrender.

Bullets falling, other convicts resorted to torches. Flames climbed the sides of the prison workshops and spread to the main buildings. Jennings attempted to send out a call for help but found all wires leading out of the prison had been cut. Apparently the attempted outbreak had been mapped thoroughly.

Workshops Burned Not until the residents of Auburn saw smoke drifting above the prison was the outside world aware of the war that was raging behind the walls. Calls for help were sent out; soon state troopers and firemen from the surrounding country were underneath the prison walls.

Then began a weird warfare, a strange blend of medieval fighting and modern military tactics. A fire engine was pressed into service as a battering ram: it splintered itself against a section of the wall and caught fire. Convicts waved butcher knives which they had seized in the kitchen; their legs served for war clubs. Above the clamor and cries came the rattle of machine guns, sending bullets splattering into walls and bodies.

There was even a touch of Arthurian chivalry for Captain Pat Morrissey of the Auburn fire department was seized by two convicts as he fought the flames and was carried away.

"You're too old to mix in this," the convicts told their struggling captive.

Huntington Beach, was bookkeeper for the Standard Gasoline company. He was seen earlier last evening in company with two strangers, according to information from Huntington Beach and at that time was endeavoring to cash a check for $100 on the company for which he worked. At the time the body was found, only $21.10 was found in the pockets. He was last seen alive in Huntington Beach at 6 o'clock, it was reported.

One of the youths arrested had $50 in cash on his person at the time of arrest, Sheriff Jernigan said.

Kirk formerly lived in Newport Beach and at the time of his death was residing in Huntington Beach with his brother, Paul Kirk. The body was removed to the Dixon funeral parlors where it is being held pending the sheriff's investigation.

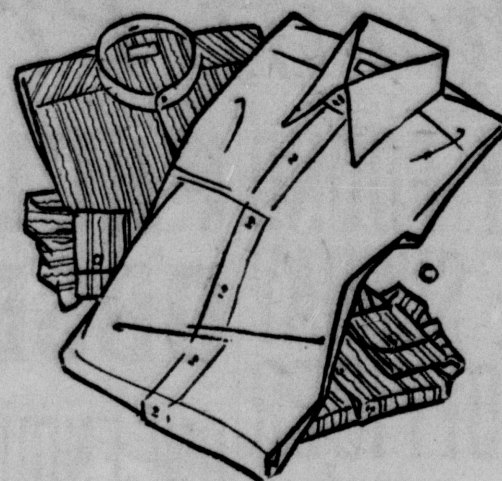

Jernigan dispatched deputy sheriffs today to San Gabriel and San Bernardino, where witnesses reside who were passing along the road at the time and who are said to have seen a fight in progress just before Kirk was killed. The witnesses are Gordon K. Chandler, 319 Vista street, San Gabriel, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rowe, 509 Anacapa street, San Bernardino.

Kirk's death was due to a fracture of the skull caused by being struck by a blunt instrument, Sheriff Jernigan said. Jernigan said the fracture could have been caused by an automobile.

FLOOD CONTROL ENGINEER SAYS HAD FREE HAND

which convinced me (Col. Finley) that the final decision was being made by laymen and not engineers."

The observations recited by Col. Finley imply that I was paid for preparing an alibi for the selection of the lower site. This is absolutely untrue. The lower Prado reservoir site was selected jointly by Messrs. Wiley, Herrman, Paul, the board of consulting engineers, and myself after field examinations and due deliberation on all the facts and evidence developed by the engineering investigations. There were no instructions, influence or pressure brought to bear at any time upon this decision, neither for the rejection of the upper site nor for the selection of the lower one. If the statements made in Col. Finley's letter relative to the preparation of an alibi for the rejection of the upper Prado reservoir were ever made at any of the meetings of the board of supervisors and citizens advisory committee I did not hear them.

The conversation between Col. Finley and myself described in his letter purporting that I regarded it my duty to recommend the lower dam site because the supervisors wanted it is absolutely untrue. I was only one of the four engineers that jointly and unanimously selected the lower Prado reservoir site and did not control the decision. The reasons for the selection are set forth in my report.

Very truly yours,
PAUL BAILEY.

BODY OF MISSING YOUTH DISCOVERED

WILLOWS, Calif., July 29. — (UP)—Jack Keeran, 15-year-old son of John F. Keeran, of Berkeley met an "accidental death by drowning," a coroner's jury said here today, after discovery of the boy's body in Cold creek in the Black Butte mountains Saturday night.

Hundreds of searchers who had sought the boy for nearly a week returned to the city, reporting that a party of three searchers, Robert Durbrow, A. T. Steele and Donald Cameron, had found the body.

The trio located the spot where young Keeran last was seen fishing. Durbrow dove into the waters at this point, and discovered that they concealed a hole completely surrounded by rocks. Groping about in this hole, he found the body of the missing boy, held under a ledge of rock.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Judas admired his Leader and yearned to see Him triumphant, provided that he, Judas, got what he wanted for himself and for his fellows. He betrayed Him in the hope that his own desires might be fulfilled.

Strive to develop your devotion to God and His loving will as your paramount allegiance, so that there will be no devastating conflict in your heart between what you want and what He directs.

After you have suffered a "whip" you will know that His way brings light and peace.

SIX ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED OVER WEEK END

Only two persons were hurt when six cars piled up on the Coast highway, five miles south of San Clemente, last night, in one accident, but eight others were injured in five additional accidents reported throughout the county over the week end.

An automobile driven by J. W. Higgins, 640 East Thirty-seventh street, Los Angeles, stopped suddenly in the road and five cars behind him piled up, according to a report filed here. Higgins stopped his car when he became blinded by the lights from an approaching machine.

J. M. Fate, of Pennsylvania, drove his car into the Higgins machine first, then he was struck by a car driven by Dexter Perry, of Kansas City, Mo. A car driven by Fred Steele, of Pomona, crashed into the Perry machine and his machine in turn, was struck by another.

Steele suffered severe bruises but was able to return home. Mrs. Fate was cut and bruised. None of the cars turned over.

Boys, Girls Hurt

Two boys and two girls were injured at 2:30 yesterday morning, when the machine in which they were riding crashed into a tree, near the Eddie Martin airport, on the Newport road. The driver of the car, Earl Hoyle, of 130 North Amerigo street, Fullerton, reported to the sheriff's office that he fell asleep at the wheel, allowing the car to leave the road. Those injured were Hoyle, Lucile Thomas, of Orange; Glenn Clark, of 418 East Wilshire, Fullerton; and Thelma Kelley, of Orange. All received cuts and bruises.

Frank Urban, 7 years old, suffered a severe cut over the right eye when he was thrown against the seat of the car in which he was riding near the county hospital, yesterday afternoon. He was taken to the hospital and later returned home. Nurses in the hospital said that the driver of the car put the brakes on suddenly, causing the lad to lose his balance. Urban lives at 1118 Fifty-seventh street, Maywood.

F. W. Bunyard, of 2075 Evergreen street, suffered cuts and bruises about the head and right arm late Saturday afternoon when the automobile in which he was riding collided at Orange avenue and Cubbon street with a machine driven by Henry Wilde, 14, of 902 Orange avenue, according to a report made to city police.

Bunyard was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where it was said his injuries were not of a serious nature.

No one was injured when a truck and a small car collided at Seventeenth street and Grand avenue Saturday night, the small car overturning. A report was made at the city police station. The truck is owned by the Orange Hardware company.

Two persons, whose names were not learned, were injured Sunday afternoon, on the Newport road when a car in which they were riding collided with a machine driven by Dave Phillips, of 327 South Spring street, Los Angeles, according to a report at the sheriff's office by Phillips.

R. C. Boelen, Garden Grove man, arrested in connection with the disappearance of Hilda Taves, 13-year-old Santa Ana girl, last Monday, was returned to Kern county by Bakersfield officers yesterday.

He was arrested here Friday night, after the girl had returned to her home.

CONFECTIONERY STORE CATS ARE NONCHALANT CREATURES

"Look at the big cat!"

Hundreds of pedestrians have made that remark on seeing Angel, sleek black and white cat, strolling calmly and unafraid along Fourth or Main streets. Crowds do not bother Angel, who takes great pleasure in visiting among the shops near his own home. He will watch his chance, slipping into each store after a customer, and having paid his morning call, dodging out once more and returning home.

Angel is one of those enviable felines—a confectionery cat. The self-confident member in which he entered his present home, a well known confectionery store on Fourth street, one morning three years ago won him a place with the waitresses and later with the owners of the shop. The large, apparently lazy, cat saves his owner over $100 each year by completely doing away with rats in the store.

Occasionally, Angel's rattling enthusiasm gets the best of him and he will bring in a large rat from some outside source, asking for approbation, which usually is lacking.

Boots and Cyclone complete the category of Santa Ana confectionery cats. They also hold sway in a Fourth street shop. Boots' chief claim to distinction lies in his six-toed paws. When asked in a pleasing tone of voice, he will lie down and "roll over." His partner, orange-colored Cyclone, delights in mouthing and in spinning around on the counter stools until he is deliciously dizzy and his master comes to rescue him.

There are cats, and cats, but none to compare with these unaristocratic, common, but always lovable confectionery pussies.

OTHER CITIES OFFER CHURCH CAMP LOCATION

A location committee was appointed to investigate sites other than those in Santa Ana for the permanent camp grounds of the Church of the Nazarene at a meeting held in the home of the Rev. U. E. Harding, Saturday night.

The location committee is composed of the Rev. J. T. Little, district superintendent; the Rev. Frank Stevens, of Whittier; the Rev. U. E. Harding, of Santa Ana; and Laymen W. C. Wilson, of Long Beach, and C. E. Jones, of Pasadena. Its purpose is to discover the values of properties offered by Compton, Hermosa Beach, Hawthorne, Whittier and Montebello.

That the board at present favors the Santa Ana sites as the location for the permanent encampment grounds was pointed out today by the Rev. Mr. Harding. The project, originating at the recent camp meeting, suggests that the Walnut Grove auto park, at 2700 North Main street, be purchased by the district.

A resolution regarding the new $55,000 church building, to be erected at the corner of Broadway and Bishop streets, was passed unanimously by the congregation of the church yesterday, thus assuring its construction.

Police News

Police today were searching for a machine owned by Al Ta-boya, route No. 1, reported stolen last night from Delhi.

A Mexican "peeping Tom" was the object of a search by police in the 1400 block on Orange avenue late last night. He was seen through a window, peering, but escaped before officers arrived.

Twenty gallons of gasoline were stolen Saturday night and 10 gallons Friday night from a truck owned by the county, in Costa Mesa, according to a report filed with the sheriff today.

Benjamin Sanchez, 20, was arrested yesterday on a speeding charge and lodged in the county jail by F. L. Humiston, deputy sheriff. Sanchez lives in Orange.

Bondsmen for Fred Miller, dance hall proprietor of Sunset Beach, arrested several days ago on a charge of violation of the county closing ordinance, surrendered him to the jail last night. His hearing is set for tomorrow in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

Ole Buer, state traffic officer, who has been ill for the last five weeks, following an operation in Los Angeles, was back at work today.

George Stinson, state traffic officer, suffered injuries Saturday afternoon, near Laguna Beach, when his motorcycle skidded. Several ligaments in his left leg were pulled. He was not on duty today.

Local Briefs

A building permit for another residence in the south part of Santa Ana was issued today by Sam Preble, city building inspector. The permit calls for a six-room residence and double garage of frame and stucco construction, to be built by D. Trueblood at 1420 South Parton street, at a cost of $4500. George Schuetz has been issued a permit to build a frame and stucco garage, costing $200, at 1516 North Flower street.

Bulb growers from all over Southern California met in the farm advisor's offices here, Saturday, where they decided to continue development of a co-operative marketing organization in order to meet eastern competition and to pool their production in filling large orders. A resolution was adopted in which horticultural commissioners will be requested to extend field inspections to include bulb gardens so that the growers will have an accurate check on the quality of their production.

Santa Ana pyramid, No. 41, Ancient Egyptian Order of Scouts, will hold a theater party in the Fox-Walker theater Monday night, August 5. The party will attend the second show at 9 o'clock and the Drum Corps and Lybion Guard will be present in full uniform. Scouts should wear their fezzes.

August is vacation month for the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock, pastor of the Congregational church. Ministers who will fill his pulpit during that time include the Rev. Edward D. Gaylord, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, in Los Angeles, and the Rev. Henry C. Culbertson, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Los Angeles.

LONG ILLNESS PROVES FATAL TO MRS. SCOTT

Mrs. Dora Estella Scott, 58, wife of Jay H. Scott, of 606 Minter street, died in her home early this morning after a lingering illness. Her husband, a son, Ferris Scott, and a brother, Guy Strickland, of Albion, Mich., are the only survivors.

Mrs. Scott, with her husband and son, had been a resident of Santa Ana for 21 years, the last 16 of which were spent in the Minter street home.

Two years ago Mrs. Scott served as president of the city Women's Christian Temperance union.

Four weeks ago today Mrs. Scott was brought to her home in this city after spending two weeks in the Loma Linda sanitarium. Since that time she had been failing rapidly and, although her death was not unexpected, it came as a great grief to her numerous intimate friends, who, during the period of her illness, had sustained hope that the prominent Santa Ana woman might recover.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Scott attended school in Albion where Mrs. Scott taught for several years previous to her marriage. Mr. Scott held a pastorate there before coming to Santa Ana and 21 years ago was minister in the Emanuel Baptist church of this city.

Funeral services will be held in Winbiger's funeral parlors at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, with the Rev. C. D. Hicks, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church, officiating. Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Rays Morales, 45, of San Juan Capistrano, was arrested last night by Officers Yoder and Adams, of the state traffic department, on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The case was to come before Justice Kenneth Morrison today.

939 BOY SCOUT AWARDS MADE IN SIX MONTHS

A total of 939 Court of Honor awards and promotions for the first six months of 1929 was shown on the report of the Court of Honor for the Orange county council of Boy Scouts, just made public by George G. Walker, county Scout executive.

Troop 5 of Huntington Beach heads the list in the number of honors awarded with a total of 124. Huntington Beach troop 1 follows in second place with 83 awards.

The honors won by these two troops were large factors in making the total for district one, in which they are included, run second in the list of districts. The district, composed of three troops from Huntington Beach, three from Garden Grove and one each from Westminster, Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Talbert, Laguna Beach, Capistrano and San Clemente, ran up a total of 276 awards and promotions.

District 5, composed of five troops from Fullerton, and one each from La Habra, Brea, Olinde, Yorba Linda, Placentia and Brea, took first honors in the totals of the districts with 302. Third place went to district 2, which includes the eight Santa Ana troops and one each from Tustin and Irvine. The total number of awards for district 2 were 162. District 4 ran true to its name in fourth place with a total of 114 awards and promotions. This district is made up of six Anaheim troops, District 3, with only two troops from Orange on its roll, was fifth, but made an enviable showing for the two troops' activities with a total of 85 awards.

Promotions and awards were divided into eight classes. Awards for the whole county were as follows: Second class, 89; first class, 40; Scout badges, 247; merit badges, 489; star, 33; life, 13; eagle, 14, and palm, 14.

Pair Arrested On Fighting Charge

The manly art of self defense has been practiced in Delhi for the last year or so, now, since Henry Foust opened his boxing arena, but there were no bright lights or paid admissions when Lupe Orsua, 20, and Y. Castaneda, 21, both Delhi bantams, started "doing their stuff" last night, so they were "run in" and charged with fighting.

Today, in justice court, Kenneth Morrison held up the hand of Castaneda by giving him a suspended sentence. He sent Orsua to jail for 30 days.

CADMAN WILL BE GUEST OF S.A. LIONS CLUB

A double treat is in store for Santa Ana Lions this week, according to an announcement made today by Lyle Anderson, president, and E. M. Sunquist, secretary.

Charles Wakefield Cadman, noted composer and pianist, will be the guest of D. C. Clantoni at the meeting and will play several numbers for the Lions and their guests, who will include representatives of the other service clubs in the city.

Some of Cadman's most celebrated compositions are "At Dawning," "Land of the Sky Blue Water" and the opera, "Shu-ne-wid," based on an old Indian legend. It is believed that he will present some of his compositions for the enjoyment of the Lions.

Harry James, English comedian and head of the educational department of the Majestic Radio company, of Los Angeles, will appear on the program as an entertainment feature. James is a former Victor artist and has made many records for that company.

Burr Shafer is chairman of the program committee for the Thursday meeting.

P-T-A. PLANS BENEFIT SHOW ON AUGUST 22

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 29.—At the meeting of the executive board of the Parents-Teacher association in the city auditorium with Mrs. Margaret Colvin, president, it was decided to hold a "jittery carnival" on the evening of August 22, from 7 to 10 o'clock, for the benefit of the milk fund of the P-T-A. This fund provides free milk and luncheon for kindergarten children of the public schools during the entire school term. Each year the P-T-A. members provide sufficient funds to carry on this work.

Preceding the carnival there will be a parade at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of August 22. Mrs. Adah Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Ella Miller will direct the parade, a feature of which is to be a section of old Ford cars carrying passengers dressed in quaint costumes.

The carnival will be at the city auditorium and there will be a large number of booths, feature acts, side show freaks, children's animal pets, a fair with displays and all the features of the old fashioned carnival with confetti and noisemakers. The Hawaiian orchestra will provide music and there will be special numbers by a violinist whose name is to be sprung as a surprise at the carnival. There will also be several surprise features to the program.

Mrs. P. H. Osborne and Mrs. Will Jones will have the "hot dog" booth. Mrs. Duncan and Mrs. Clark will sell popcorn and popcorn balls. Mrs. Mildred Ridenour will conduct a booth of antiques. Other booths will be as follows: Candy booth, Mrs. Berkey and Mrs. Hagar; Ice cream, Mr. Duncan and Lawrence Ridenour; doughnuts and coffee, Mrs. Ray; fishpond, Mrs. Burry; side show, Mrs. Elsie Patrick; ringmaster and circus big boss, Mrs. Jake Rhodes; barker for all concessions including the snake charmer, A. FIRE EXTINGUISHED
SAN CLEMENTE, July 29.—Called to fight a grass fire just off the main street, Avenida Del Mar, on Sunday afternoon, the San Clemente fire department made a quick call and soon 10 firemen with wet sacks put out the blaze. Two houses were endangered for a while by the grass fire.

NEW CITY HALL AT SEAL BEACH READY SEPT. 1

SEAL BEACH, July 29.—That the city of Seal Beach is getting big value in the new $50,000 municipal building is the comment frequently heard from citizens and visitors. The new building has progressed to the extent that the concrete work on the outside is finished and artisans and laborers are working on the interior. The building, located in the center of the city, is to house all municipal departments, provide a city auditorium and council chambers and also the public library. This is a big order to wrap up inside four walls but Seal Beach is doing it at a cost of $50,000 and the structure will provide for the needs of the city for several future years estimated growth.

A. G. Johnson, chief of police of Seal Beach, guided a party of visitors through the new building Saturday afternoon, announcing that the structure was expected to be opened about September 1, when the Orange County Peace Officers' association will meet in Seal Beach, and there will be a public celebration observing the opening of the new city hall.

From the main entrance of the building a hall leads toward the rear. At the left of the hall from the entrance are the clerical department offices for clerk, recorder, city engineer, auditor, court room, and to the left center, chief of police private office, squad room, examining room for prisoners. At the rear are fire department rooms with an opening on the side street and one at the back of the quarters, affording the department apparatus easy entrance and exit. A new American LaFrance 500-gallon pump has been ordered as an addition to the fire department and this new engine and the old chemical will both be housed in the new quarters.

At the right of the main entrance to city hall will be housed the public library with a large reading room for the public and a separate reading room and study room for school children. The rooms are well lighted and there is ample book shelf room and storage rooms with offices for the librarians.

The jail on the right of the main hall has three double cells and a single cell for men and there is a woman's department with four separate cells for women.

The first floor is equipped with three vaults which will be assigned for the use of the various departments. These vaults will be protected with combination locks.

The second floor of the new city hall will contain the city auditorium and meeting place for the city council. The rear portion is to be the sleeping and living quarters for the fire department and the matron of the jail, who is the wife of the fire chief.

The building is fire proof. The floors of the offices will be of concrete. At the rear of the building under a separate roof there will be a six-car garage for municipal use and for storing confiscated cars.

H. B. PREPARES FOR PAGEANT OF LIGHTS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 29.—Suburban communities have been invited to have representative floats in the pageant of lights to be held in Huntington Beach on the completion of the new electric lighting system now being installed on Main street in this city. The affair will occur within the next three or four weeks and the chamber of commerce is planning quite an elaborate program.

The pageant as planned will depict the development of the usages of light by mankind from the day of the earliest crude torches to the modern sky projectors to guide airplanes on their flight. The program and plans are meeting with enthusiastic support and arousing wide interest. A huge platform to be erected in the business district will be used as a stage where dancing and other features will be enjoyed.

RECORD CROWD PAYS VISIT TO SAN CLEMENTE SUNDAY

SAN CLEMENTE, July 29.—San Clemente entertained its record summer crowd over the week end. More people than ever before used the strand, fishing pier, barge and live boats and the fresh water pool of the San Clemente Beach club.

Yellowtail, bonita, barracuda, white sea bass and halibut were caught in large quantities. The yellowtail are just beginning to run, says George Stearns, proprietor of the bait store at the end of the pier. He says that yellowtail from five to ten pounds were caught. The barge yielded good catches of bass, barracuda and halibut.

Cars were lined up for blocks at the underground entrance of the beach at the pier. Hundreds of others took advantage of the beach, barbecue pits and tables on the beach near the beach club.

Highway traffic was heavy and restaurant and shop keepers report one of the best weekend crowds of the year.

PHONE HEARING SEPTEMBER 27 IN BEACH CITY

NEW WESTMINSTER, July 29.—A public hearing in the matter of the petition No. 15769 as placed before the state railroad commission by the Associated Telephone company, of Long Beach, in regard to the forming of a new telephone exchange in the northern half of the present Huntington Beach exchange, will be held September 27, at Huntington Beach. At this meeting opposition to the proposed system will be heard by a commissioner.

The site of the proposed exchange is New Westminster, it being the intention of the telephone company to erect a new building at the corner of Seventeenth street and Huntington Beach boulevard to house the office.

The telephone company canvassed the northern territory in May in regard to the proposed change of systems, sending the petition to the railroad commission recently. A counter petition was circulated under the leadership of the Smelter Lima Bean Growers' association, this being sent to the commission showing strong opposition throughout the district to the proposed division, which would leave about 27 square miles in each exchange with toll exacted for what is now free territory.

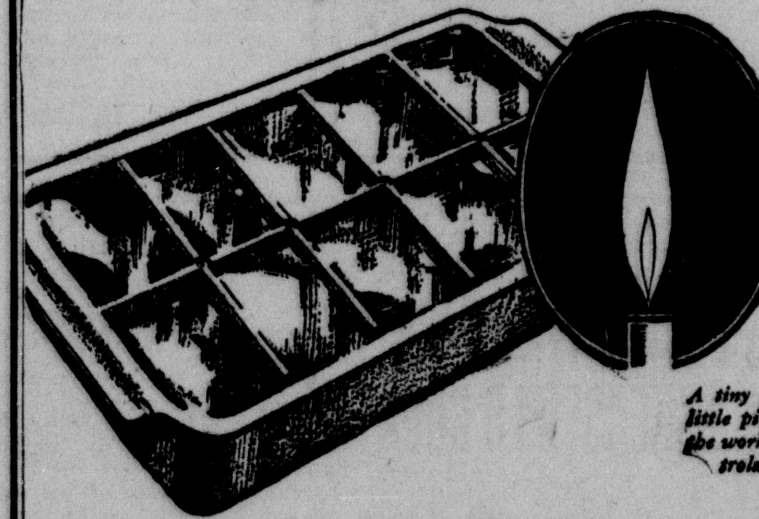

Cut rates to telephone subscribers were promised in the telephone company's petition and an automatic system would be installed.

STARS, ACORNS BATTLE IN BOWL TONIGHT

Moreno Meets Acunning In 'Comeback' Match Here

PLACENTIA BOY OUT TO REDEEM RECENT DEFEAT

"Baby-Face" Tony Moreno, young Placentia bantam, hit the high spots in his training here today for his coming bombardment with the Filipino flash, Cerilo Acunning, whom he faces in one of the five six-round "all-star" bouts booked by Matchmaker Henry T. Foust for tomorrow night at the Orange County Athletic club.

And Tony "hit it" with a vengeance. He is out to re-establish himself here as a main eventer with the ultimate idea of getting Jess Gabuco in the local ring and avenging the defeat Gabuco meted out to him at Hollywood several weeks ago.

The Gabuco match was a sad mistake on the part of Moreno, according to smart ring followers. Tony was just through trimming "Mexican Mickey" Walker in a six-round main event here and instead of capitalizing on his local victory he went into a four-round fight at Hollywood against Gabuco and came out second best. He was stopped in a round.

Ready For Real Bid

Now he is back ready to make his real bid with the Babuco fight his big aim. Tuesday night Tony draws Cerilo Acunning, a stablemate of Young Nationalista, who has been going rather well in Southland rings and is liable to cause Moreno no end of trouble. Should Acunning win Moreno will have to mark time but in event Moreno scores over the Filipino bantam, Matchmaker Foust will attempt to sign Moreno's conqueror for a feature at the southside club early next month.

The Moreno-Acunning fight isn't the only melee on Foust's program that seems to be attracting local interest. This "Fighting Joe" Reese, who was born Joe Ruiz, fresh from a great draw with the veteran Marty (Kid) Mack, tackles the rough and ready Tony Bevo in a welter fight that ought to furnish the real fireworks. Bevo is a hard-hitter and may prove, entirely too good for the Santa Ana, yet Reese apparently doesn't fear any fighter his weight and believes he will return the winner.

Kid Lucas On Card

Kid Lucas, flashy little Filipino flyweight who turned in a slashing battle last week against Billy Cain, draws Young Sport, a kid who has been packing them in at Compton amateur shows for the past six months. Sport recently turned professional and is said to have a bright future. If Sport is half as good as his backers claim, Lucas should be in for a real tussle.

Urban Hernandez vs. Pete Pina and Young Peter Jackson vs. "Nifty" Gonzales clash in six rounds also.

Matchmaker Foust made a hurried trip to San Diego Saturday to look over several fighters with the object of signing one or more for future cards here.

Tuesday night's program will be the second fight started with the object of developing local talent.

IN THE ARMY NOW

He's just a foot-soldier now, but this fall when they bring out the old football and the boys start running the ends and hitting that line. Cadet J. H. Murrell, shown below in infantry garb, will be a hero. Murrell is the Army fullback.

SALE OF GIANT BASEBALL CLUB LIKELY, REPORT

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 29.—The signal failure of the New York Giants to get anywhere in the current National league race, which is as wide open as the Grand canyon, leads indirectly to the conclusion that the club may be sold before the 1930 season.

It is not so much the fact that the Giants have been beaten so often but the manner of their defeats which gives rise to belief that John J. McGraw may finally be tiring of active participation in baseball.

The Giants, usually the scrappiest of ball clubs under the spur of McGraw, seem to have lost their fighting spirit. Young Mel Ott and Big Bill Terry carry on, because they are that kind of ball players, but the team as a whole is not the hell-raising organization one has come to expect under the leadership of the erstwhile "Little Napoleon."

Garden Wants to Buy
Many offers have been made for the New York Giants in recent years. At Miami Beach last winter, W. F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden corporation, held a secret conference with McGraw on the subject. At the time, as on the occasion of other offers for the club, it was McGraw's love of the game that really blocked the deal.

A long and successful career as a manager has brought McGraw about to the end of his activities on the playing field. And when he has to watch the game from a box, the chances are that his interest will wane.

The Giants have not been driven this season as McGraw used to drive his players in the old days. There is little of the customary pitcher baiting from the players' bench. Crippled by injuries, the club showed no fight. When the cripples returned, matters did not improve. The pitchers couldn't deliver and the team hitting slumped.

McGraw Dissatisfied
This is not the sort of a ball club McGraw would long wish to be associated with. The question is, has he the energy to tear down and build up anew, or will he sell out? The syndicate controlling the New York Giants is so constituted that if McGraw were to withdraw the club would be virtually thrown upon the market, this despite vigorous denials by Charley Stoneham and Judge McQuaid.

The Madison Square Garden corporation is branching out. Some of its directors would like to own a ball club of the major leagues. The ball park, as a site for championship fights and other sporting activities is one incentive, and there are others.

Rickard Had the Idea
The late Tex Rickard, when head of Madison Square Garden, always wanted to buy a major league franchise or two. "Syndicate baseball" held no terrors for the naive Texan. He saw no reason why both New York club should not use the one park, since only one team was in town at a time. He saw no reason why one man should not control two or more clubs in the same circuit.

Tex controlled two or more competing heavyweights at a time and got along very nicely and the public failed to complain. If Rickard had been permitted to buy into baseball we might have witnessed some interesting developments in the national pastime.

Agua Caliente's Golf Dates Fixed

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Agua Caliente's $25,000 open golf championship, the world's richest tournament and the climax of the Southern California mid-winter golf season, will be held over New Year's season at the border city.

Don Forker, of the Los Angeles junior chamber of commerce, has announced the first 36 holes of the championship event to be played December 30 and 31, with the deciding round January 2 and 3, leaving New Year's day for rest or recreation.

Gledhill, Vines Win Court Title

GRAND RAPIDS, July 29.—Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, the two California stars, annexed major honors in the Western Michigan tennis tournament here. Gledhill won singles honors by defeating Vines, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4. The two Californians then teamed together to win the doubles from Emmett Pare and Ellis Klingeman, both of Chicago, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

'FIGHTING JOE'

This good looking youngster is "Fighting Joe" Reese whose development has been the sensation of Santa Ana fistiana in the past month. Reese's real name is Ruiz but the Orange County Athletic club's publicity representatives saw that it was changed. Reese is easier to read and pronounce, you know. "Fighting Joe" fights Tony Bevo here tomorrow night.

FRENCH RETAIN CUP AS COCHET CONQUERS LOTT

By GEORGE KENT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 29.—After successfully defending the Davis cup against the challenge of the United States, France today began its reign as ruler of the tennis world for the third straight year.

Fighting gallantly uphill after losing the two opening singles matches Friday, the United States evened the series at two matches each Sunday only to encounter once more the nemesis of American tennis hopes—Henri Cochet—and lost the final and deciding match. The final score of the series was France three matches and the United States two.

With the series all even at two matches each, George Lott, Chicago youngster playing his first challenge round, was pitted against Cochet, world's greatest player, in the closing match. Doomed to defeat, the American youngster went down fighting: 6-1, 3-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Closing a decade of Davis cup service, William T. Tilden brought the United States on even terms with France by conquering Jean Borotra in the opening singles

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Master Frederick, the young Brooklyn outfielder, is said to be the best fly catcher in the league. But he has a terrible weakness on ground balls...The American league experts say that Jimmy Fox was not hitting over his head...And that on the other hand he has been in a slump...And Al Simmons said when the child was in a slump he could look at more third strikes than any player he ever saw...The Jints have reduced the price of all their bleacher seats to a half-buck...And only 800 fans saw the Browns play a few days ago in St. Louis...They say that it was the cracks Jack Hendricks made about Hornsby that started the bad feeling between the Reds and the Cubs.

HE WASN'T DOIN' NOTHIN'

Mr. William McGowan, the pride of Wilmington, and my favorite umpire, was standing like the great Napoleon at third base during the first series in Washington between the Senators and the Detroit Tigers. It was Buckey's first visit to Washington as the manager of a rival club and a goodly crowd was there.

It was a dull game and our William hadn't had a decision to make. He was thinking of other

TILT BETWEEN LEADERS OF COUNTY LEAGUE VIRTUALLY DETERMINES CHAMPIONSHIP

THE CHAMPION of the Orange County league probably will emerge from tonight's climactic baseball struggle in the Bowl between Santa Ana and Long Beach. The winner will go into first place and if it can't maintain the exalted position against remaining opposition that team will not deserve titular recognition. The twinkling Stars and the mighty Acorns will swing into action at 8 o'clock with a full house, and more, certain to be there when they go to the post. Even the great game of American football has never tugged at the heart-strings of this city as has this strange new sport called night baseball.

What tickets are unsold in advance will be taken to the main gate of the Bowl at 6 o'clock to accommodate late buyers. With no other games scheduled in the county hundreds will flock here from surrounding communities for the epic conflict, and none will be turned away. Those unable to secure seats will be allowed to line the banks of the Bowl as they did at the Anaheim tussle last week.

Ochoa Gets Assignment
Recovered from a brief illness, Roy Hitt, manager of the Acorns, was quoted as saying that Bobby Dalton would start for Long Beach. Scheduled to oppose Orange at Orange tomorrow night, the Acorns

SHELLS, LEGION ONLY UNBEATEN TWILIGHT CLUBS

Only two of the Santa Ana Twilight league's 10 teams are undefeated after two weeks of the second half of the season. They are the Shell Oil company, which won the first half, and the American Legion Bugle and Drum corps, which got nowhere in the earlier sprint but looks ready to be a contender clear to the tape this half.

This week's schedule follows: Monday—Courthouse vs. American Legion Bugle and Drum corps; Tuesday—Shell Oil company vs. Orange County Title company; Wednesday—Excelsior Creamery company vs. Smart and Final; Thursday—Richfield Oil company vs. Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company; Friday—Dennis Printers vs. Auto Club of Orange County.

NIGHT LEAGUE LEADERS CLASH ON WEDNESDAY

Tonight's tussle between Santa Ana and Long Beach is not the only night baseball game of vital importance that will be played this week in the Sixth and Olive street Bowl.

On Wednesday eve the two most powerful teams in the Santa Ana City league will collide, and the championship of the second half of the split season most likely will go to the winner. They are the Kinslow Machine shop and the Tiernan Typewriter company.

The Tiernans won the first half with five straight victories. The Machineists were second, with four wins and one loss, and that, 5 to 4, to the Tiernans. Joe Ochoa and Walt Jordan will be the rival gunners in this contest.

Struggling to get out of the cellar, the Barr Lumbermen and the El Corral Cowboys tangle Tuesday night.

The Santa Ana Ice company, which also is undefeated, faces the strong Hawley Sporting Goods entry Thursday.

City league standings follow:

EIGHT GOLFERS HIT BLIND BOGEY RIGHT

Eight Santa Ana Country club golfers hit "blind" on the nose in blind bogey ball sweepstakes Saturday. They were Dr. G. C. Roas, 84-12-72; E. B. Van Meter, 82-10-72; S. R. Bowen, 96-24-72; F. G. West, 99-27-72; O. A. Jacobs, 92-24-72; L. D. Coffing, 84-12-72; Paul Williams, 95-23-72; R. A. Emison, 88-16-72.

R. O. Winkler finished first in Saturday's medal play sweepstakes with a card of 79-12-67. G. B. Shattuck, 78-10-68, was second and Z. McKinney, 86-16-70, third. E. Chilson, 81-10-71; O. Pixie, 85-14-71; Z. B. West Jr., 83-12-71; E. T. Mateer, 81-10-71, and W. W. Foote, 83-12-71, all tied for fourth.

Shooting the best gross card of the week-end, President J. K. McDonald won Sunday's Class A medal play with his 77-6-71. L. L. Carden was second with 84-12-72 and Ed Holmes third with 78-5-73.

C. P. Patton was first in Class B with an 85-18-67. E. Z. McKinney, 88-16-72, was second and F. G. Pinkerton third with 91-18-75.

STARS. ACORNS CLASH IN BOWL HERE TONIGHT

must handle their pitchers judiciously on the face of things it would seem the better part of valor for Long Beach to use its ace, Howard Morning, against the Stars and take a chance on Dalton at Orange.

If Dalton starts it is certain he will not linger long if the Stars begin to get men on base. Hitt jerked him after he had allowed two runs when Santa Ana faced the Acorns at Long Beach last Tuesday and Hitt has been through too many stirring ball games on his own accord to be chicken-hearted now. If Dalton wavers, or he will come.

Farrow is Big Threat

While Santa Ana's biggest problem seems to be what to do with "Butch" Farrow, the fat Long Beach catcher who has done nothing but beat the Stars twice this season, the home talent must not forget they will face a battery of other dangerous hitters too. Neal, Kohler, Ballard and Maness are tough in anybody's league. Maness hit safely four times last week and the others all gave the sphere ride after ride.

Farrow, however, is the man Ochoa will "work" on. The "Butcher," a fine sportsman as well as a high class ball player, is the Babe Ruth of night baseball. He takes such cut at the ball that he looks good striking out, which is seldom. Farrow holds the distinction of having hit the longest ball ever seen in the bowl. In the Southern California playoffs last summer he drove one of Glenn Stockbridge's pitches up against the Twilight league scoreboard on the center field incline. Last Tuesday he smacked one of Ochoa's fast ones over the fence at Long Beach, the first time a ball ever had been hit out of that park.

He's Plain Poison

That one beat the Stars and in case you may have forgotten it was Farrow, too, who knocked Santa Ana bowlegged the first time the clubs met here this year. The score was 1 to 1 when "Butch" batted in the seventh. He shot a line drive into right field, George Preble, who was patrolling that sector for Santa Ana, got under it but the drive was so hot it handcuffed him, spun out of his glove and went on up the bank. Farrow ponderously circles the sacks and Long Beach won, 2 to 1.

Santa Ana's lineup will be as it has been for the last two weeks. Wayne Nelson's marvelous defensive and offensive work in the big games having settled the doubtful situation in left field, Nelson was in a slump for weeks but he is playing the best of his career now and has won his spurs for the rest of the season. He always has been a dangerous hitter in a pinch and now that his confidence is restored he will help the Santa Ana attack immensely.

Tonight's tussle probably will be the same old story—a fight between two fast-ball pitchers with one, Ochoa, supported by flashy infielders and outfielders who make up for light hitting by smart, fast baserunning, and the other, Morning, assisted by good defensive players and powerful batsmen who take a toe-hold and swing for their base knocks.

Morning Great Hurler

Morning probably has an edge on Ochoa in pitching and the Acorns are regarded as stronger hitters but they are not as fleet nor are they as clever on the pathways.

Santa Ana plays three more league games after tonight—one at Huntington Beach Friday, one here with Olive August 9 and one at Orange August 16. Long Beach must engage in four—at Orange Tuesday, Olive at Long Beach August 6, at Anaheim August 13, and Olive at Long Beach at a time to be decided between the teams involved. The schedule appears to favor the Stars as Long Beach's opposition, especially Anaheim, is stronger on paper than Santa Ana's.

But as important as those few coming matches will be, tonight's game probably will decide the championship.

Three umpires will work tonight's game between Santa Ana and Long Beach. George Peterkin, president of the Orange County Night Baseball association, has assigned Sid Allender, of Santa Ana, to call balls and strikes, W. B. Wentz will be the base arbiter at first and second. Bill James will handle the plays at third. County league guessers get $5 a game for their toil.

FRENCH RETAIN CUP; COCHET BEATS LOTT

match Sunday in four sets, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5.

As was the case a year ago, Cochet bore the brunt of staving off the United States challenge. The former ball boy of Lyons beat both Tilden and Lott in the singles, and combined with Borotra's victory over Lott in the doubles, that was enough to insure France's retention of the Davis cup for another year.

Although Lott's two defeats in the singles cost the United States a chance to regain the trophy, there was none today to criticize the play of the young Chicago boy. Rather, the criticism seemed to be directed toward the United States Lawn Tennis association for failure to play Lott in place of Francis T. Hunter in the interzone finals against Germany, which would have given the youngster the benefit of added experience—the asset he seemed to need more than any other—for the crucial test against France.

Lott rose to superb heights to draw even with Cochet at one set all after dropping the first set. Employing a deceptive change of pace which baffled the great Cochet, the young American for a brief span looked as if he might do the well-nigh impossible, but the Frenchman recovered in the third set and raced through to a love set victory.

Twice in the final set Lott pulled up on even terms with Cochet but the blond Westerner was not quite equal to the task of halting the fiery Frenchman. Cochet had a two love and 3-1 lead in the final set but Lott evened the score at 3-3 before the French ace was able to pull away and clinch the set, match and series all in one whirlwind finish.

1, last Friday with "String" McDonnell having an edge over Chico Sabella. Riverside is in closest pursuit of Whittier.

The Orange County league probably will be revamped next summer with Whittier taking over a franchise. The clubs will play two times a week, perhaps three.

When Santa Ana beat Anaheim it was the twenty-third victory in 26 starts for the Southern California champions. Incidentally, it was the fifth extra-inning contest they have played in the last month.

Tonight's receipts will take the Santa Ana Night Baseball association out of "the red" for the first time this year. The organization was close to $600 in debt before the Anaheim match which grossed $480. A $500 "gate" is expected tonight.

But Campbell, the umpire behind the bat, was plenty busy.

BUT THEY GOT ON HIM

Suddenly a voice popped out from the Detroit bench. It was George McBride talking. He is the Detroit coach.

"Get out of there, Campbell," he shouted, "and let Connolly in there or let that Blind Tom on third call 'em'."

Our William, the Blind Tom, on third base, spread his hands out for time and went right over to the Detroit bench.

GREAT MAN FOR BATHS

"You can have an early bath, McBride," he said. "Get out of the park."

McBride got up and sulked toward the club house and our William started back to third base in the manner of General Pershing. But he had marched only a few feet when he heard another voice from the Detroit bench. The voice gave him this message:

"You'd better take a bath yourself. You haven't had one in a month."

Our William turned around and bellered:

"Was that you, Harris?"

And Bucky pleaded guilty.

BUCKY GOT EARLY BATH

"Out to the showers for you, too," McGowan ordered. And out went Bucky.

When Bucky was passing behind Campbell at the plate he called Campbell something that deeply offended the umpire and he wrote to the boss about it and the league president set Harris down for three days.

The press tore the hide off McGowan when it was announced that the Detroit manager had been put out of the series.

SUCH IS LIFE, WILL

And our William says:

"What the hell, I didn't turn him in. I ran him out of the ball game, but it was Campbell that made the report. That's the way things are for an umpire. The next time I saw Harris he said—'Hello, Bill, how's things?' And I said—'Things are pretty good, Bucky. The customers up there don't know what is said on the field, but they always put the umpire in the grease.'"

HE'S A SWELL FELLOW

Here's another letter about that crucial situation in Cincinnati:

"I would like you to publish in your column the following: What is your general opinion of Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds. Is he all that the Post readers and fans say he is? I think that is all true. He is no good. The Cincinnati Reds have the hardest playing team in the league and there is not a player on the team who can't hit if they had a new manager who is not so lazy. I am hoping that if the Reds get a new manager that old Jack is still living and see the Reds win the pennant next year. Write this up and answer this letter."

CHAPTER XXV

He was sorry, terribly sorry the thing had happened. Wilson went on. He hoped Elise wouldn't hold it against him. Wouldn't she take his two pistols? Though they would leave the fazenda without a weapon, he'd be delighted to give them to her. And of course she needn't worry about Villapa now. He was perfectly able to take care of everything.

She refused a loan which would have seemingly left him helpless, expressed her delight that his condition had so improved, and made ready to return to Porto Verde.

Wilson ingratiatingly insisted on sending a bodyguard for at least a part of the journey in order to prevent a repetition of her misadventures during the afternoon. Accordingly he sent for twenty of his laborers, armed them with machetes, clubs and axes, gave them horses and ordered them to accompany the travelers. "Sorry I can't go with you," he said subsequently, his great drawn eyelids opening and shutting quickly as though they were too weak to bear the light of the torches flaming in the laborers' hands. "Terribly sorry. Feel I'm shirking. But you know how it is... after fever."

The cavalcade set off, the torches outlining men and horses in fantastic dancing red against the black and threatening sky. Uphill, downhill they rode, through the ravine where they had been ambushed, then through the swollen creek which formed the road to Porto Verde. The three travelers constantly searched the darkness for some evidence of renewed activity on the part of their attackers of the afternoon. But their efforts were wasted. They heard nothing, saw nothing. A short distance from the Porto Verde fazenda Elise, after consulting Vilak, sent their escort back to Villapa. The rain, which had ceased for a few hours, began to fall again in torrents Elise tightened the raincoat about her slim neck. Suddenly she drew a sharp breath.

Vilak turned. "What's the matter?" he asked suddenly.

"Nothing. Only I've just thought about Tinky." Nervously, unaccountably she quickened her horse.

"A thousand things can have happened to him while we've been away. Anything can have happened."

"But nothing has happened. Be sensible. You've been a good soldier all day, a perfect soldier. I couldn't have asked for a better. Don't weaken and start being feminine. At the last minute, Tinky'll be all right. Here. You'd better have a cigarette."

She took a light from his shielded hand and let her fingers linger gently upon his a moment. Then she put the cigarette to her lips.

She smoked pensively a moment. "I'm not a good soldier," she said at length. "You're only trying to keep up my spirits. I'm a bad soldier. So wretched that I'd be given a dishonorable discharge in any respectable army. This morning you told me not to go to Villapa. I went. You were right. I was wrong. Then, when we were captured, I did nothing but sit on a log and stare weakly into a fire. You, though, bound hand and foot, first freed yourself and then freed me."

"Tomorrow I'm going to be a still worse soldier. I'm going to run away from the battle. And frankly, as far as Tinky is concerned, you were right when you said I'd be glad to get away before. I want to get him to some place where things can't happen with the ease they did today. If there were a boat out to-night, I'd take it. Yes, it seems to me, all in all, I'm a pretty poor sort of Amazon."

The rain had extinguished Vilak's cigarette. He struck a match to light it. By the flickering flame Elise saw that the bandage was no longer on the wound he had received in his wrist two days before. She snatched his hand and before he could prevent was binding it gently and effectively with a clean handkerchief. "I'm a grateful Amazon, at least," she murmured, brightening. "Even you can't keep me from being that."

They reached the fazenda. Elise hurried to find Tinky. He was in her bedroom, sleeping soundly. The jovial Hannah was sitting in a chair beside him. In the next room sat Schwartz smoking a vast meerschaum pipe. He looked up and greeted Elise as she entered.

Assured that the child was safe, though it was close on midnight, Elise hurried to have supper prepared for her two guests and herself. The three of them quickly changed their wet clothes for their dressing gowns. They sat heartily, then played a single rubber of bridge, the wearied and sleepy old man making blunders that would have driven serious-minded bridge players into a passion. Vilak, with his monotonous regularity, won.

Elise shook her dainty head. She had completely recovered her usual sprightliness. "You're getting to be really unbearable," she said. In mock despair she threw her cards onto the table. "You're always right; you always win. No matter how good a hand I have, you always manage to make me play second fiddle somehow. I've half a mind to send you home. You're terribly bad on my self-esteem. I can't have such a clever person as you around."

She rose from the table. "After all, perhaps it isn't that you are any cleverer than being a man. Perhaps it's that you're merely got a long tradition behind you which we women haven't—sort of fooling the public for hundreds of centuries, you know and that gives you confidence. Anyway, I'll comfort myself by saying it's that. Good night, Mr. Nunnally. Good night, manly and superior relative," she said. She moved toward the door.

"Just a minute, Elise," Vilak's bantering voice checked her.

She halted. "Yes?"

"Just wanted to ask you a question. Was that, kiss you gave me this afternoon a sign of homage, a tribute to your superior, was it cousinly, or was it... a proposal?"

She whipped the dressing gown tighter about her. "Pardon me if I tell you to go to the devil, my condescended friend," she flashed and whisked out of the room.

After bidding the old man good night, Vilak made his customary tour of the house, then retired. The pouring rain continued throughout the night, but ceased after a murky dawn.

Elise busied herself in completing preparations for her departure. Vilak, wishing to go to town to make a few purchases, sought out the old man, in order that they might make the journey together, but finding him deep in a sleep of exhaustion, did not wake him but set off alone. He reached Porto Verde, to see the usual groups of natives clustered in the road along the windows of the filthy dilapidated shops. Today they were gazing ominously at the puddles of water which lay everywhere and predicting disaster.

One of the natives who worked on the fazenda recognized Vilak and raised his high conical hat.

"Eet is bad, eet is not all thees rain, Meester Davis," he murmured. "Eet will make for us a flood. Yes, a most bad flood. Never before have I rain like thees see in Porto Verde. Never. Though I live here twenty years. The dam at Aylos cannot but break. Any moment maybe will it break. Myself, Maecedo, I am ready. To run fast, yes, ver' fast. And this morning I weel go see the priest an' make white my soul."

The flood peril is imminent, and Vilak decides to warn the eccentric Prentiss and save him.

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

CLASS TOLD OF WELFARE WORK BY R. R. MILLER

Some of the high and low spots in social welfare work in a great city were told to members of the Men's Community Bible class at their services, yesterday morning, in the Fox-Walker theater, by R. R. Miller, recently appointed secretary manager of the Santa Ana Community Chest and former member of the class. Miller had a rich background on which to draw for the story he told the men yesterday as for the last four years he has been superintendent of the county welfare department in Los Angeles, with a working force of 500 men and an annual budget of $2,500,000.

"The greatest interest of my life is for the poor," Miller said. "And the next greatest interest is poor folks. In Los Angeles each year we spent a huge sum taking care of those who were economically unable to do so themselves. There were about 20,000 families each year that had to be helped to keep body and soul together. We came in contact with all sorts of people. There were the groups of negroes, Russians, Jews, Italians, Mexicans and, last but not least, the young people from various parts of the country who had come to Hollywood to make good in the movies.

"There were the worthy poor and the professional 'moochers.' Among the former I remember particularly one woman who came to Los Angeles in a private car with a doctor, a nurse, two maids and a chauffeur, but who had lost everything and was dependent upon the public for support. We came to know the real sufferings of humanity with the raw side of life, with people who were fighting for life itself, with all culture and refinement stripped away. We learned that things and circumstances exist that one never would dream of. There are real social distances and worlds within worlds."

Miller also touched upon the political situation in a big city and declared that it was almost unbelievable what a great effect politics made upon character. "Politicians throw principle overboard," he declared. "They swam with any wind that blows in an effort to hold their office retain power. Most of those who are elected to office spend 85 per cent of their time looking after their political fences and only 15 per cent taking care of the office to which they were elected."

Prior to the address the Scripture lesson was read by E. A. Cox and Mrs. Harry N. Hayes sang two solos. The numbers she sang were "Come Ye Blessed" and "Blessed of Day."

Announcement was made that the fish bake and beach party would take place in Huntington Beach tomorrow night, with supper being served at 6:30. The affair promises to be a great success and some 200 men and their families are expected. It will be held on the municipal beach just north of the pier. Special rates have been obtained at the plunge for those who wish to swim before supper. This part of the program will begin at 5 o'clock. Transportation will be provided for members of the class and their families who have no cars and transportation headquarters will be maintained at the corner of Sixth street and Broadway until 6 o'clock. It was stated. Fish for the affair are being caught today by a special committee appointed for that purpose.

HAPPINESS IN HEAVEN TOPIC OF DR. TAYLOR

Dr. George Taylor, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., who is filling the pulpit of the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, during his sojourn in Pittsburg, preached last night at the evening service. In accordance with the Sunday evening programs, the minister responded to questions which had been asked during the week. His topic last night was, "How can loved ones departed be happy in heaven, when they see those who remain alive on earth sinning?"

"If our dead are happy they are in heaven," the minister declared, "and if they are in heaven they are there in the perfect harmony with the word of God. God takes sinning out of speculation and puts it into personality and death removes out limitations of humanness. That infinite quality, individuality, lives in the unseen world as well as in ours. It lives in the unknown as a complete life of a person, not in segments.

"In the last analysis, I believe that the happiness of the people that are gone is determined by God. They see His world and His ends. They comprehend the meaning of it all."

Closing his sermon Dr. Taylor admonished the people to live in such a cordial way that they need not be afraid of a look, whether it be the look of a loved one living or the look of a loved one departed.

EVANGELICALS ADVISED TO BE OF GOOD CHEER

"Be of Good Cheer." That was the sermon topic of the Rev. E. W. Matz, pastor of the Evangelical church of this city at the morning worship yesterday. Communion services were observed preceding the message brought by the pastor.

"Be of good cheer. These were the words that Jesus spoke to his disciples during his trial," the Rev. Mr. Matz declared, "and the secret of His life was a cheerful heart. Jesus' life was one of holiness, it was pure and without sin. Therein lies one secret of cheer. A person with a clear conscience is a person of power. Jesus was aware of God's presence. He said 'He that hath sent me is with me' and the cheer of the master displayed His good faith in the statement through all His trials and tribulations. Jesus loved His own unto the end. He loved with power, the power to endure, and He cheerfully endured the cross. His was a voluntary suffering which he faced with the secret of a cheerful heart."

A splendid attendance marked the worship at the church yesterday and the pastor expressed his desire that the attendance not fall during the next three weeks when he, accompanied by Mrs. Matz and their daughter, Miss Dorothy, will take a motor trip to Yosemite valley and return to visit a short time at the Pacific Palisades.

90 Day Sentence For Star Boarder

PORTLAND, Ore., July 29.—Thomas McKenna, iron moulder and "star boarder" at the municipal jail by reason of his 63 appearances in municipal court on charges of being intoxicated, has been given 90 days on the rock pile.

McKenna complained to the court bailiff that he got a "tough break." On the way down to the court elevator, McKenna asked the bailiff which judge was sitting in general court. When informed that Judge Tomlinson was on the bench, the prisoner moaned.

"I thought he was on his vacation," McKenna said. "He gave me 90 days last week, and suspended it when I told him I was going to Tacoma to work. I didn't go."

COSTS LOT TO BE CHRISTIAN SAYS SMEDLEY

R. C. Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Young Men's Christian association filled the pulpit of the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, at the morning worship hour yesterday. He took as the sermon subject, "Costly, But Valuable," and used as a text the words: "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me."

Mr. Smedley said in part: "It costs a great deal to be a Christian. But it costs a great deal not to be a Christian. Everything in life costs. Whether it is worth while or not, it is expensive."

"Every person starts life with certain values that can be used for exchange. He has certain abilities, a certain amount of time, and an assortment of desires, appetites and ambitions. His life is spent in exchanging the time and the abilities for those things that will satisfy the desires. One cannot have everything, for all things are mutually exclusive. One must choose what appears to be the most desirable, and then give what one has in exchange for it."

"If you choose an education, you must give up a certain amount of leisure, play and ease. You must sacrifice whatever stands in the way of the educational endeavor. But you make this sacrifice freely if you believe that an education is supremely desirable."

If you decide to choose ease, pleasure and recreation instead of an education, that is your privilege, but you must then be content without the education.

"And it is so with the attitude toward the Christian life. If you choose to follow Jesus in your way of living, you must lay aside many things that do not fit into His scheme of life. You must learn to say 'no' to yourself, which is one of the hardest things in life to learn, and you must follow Him without reserve, and with an undivided allegiance. But in making this great choice, you must bear in mind that the things to be gained there are far greater than those to be given up."

"Most people are kept out of the Christian life because they have an unbalanced sense of values. Little personal satisfactions, habits, pleasures, business practices, ambitions, all of which are of temporary value, are allowed to stand in the way of acceptance of the Christian way of life because the immediate enjoyment or benefit seems so much more important than the eternal values of Christianity."

"The only safe measure of values is in the long look—the appraisal of an object or an event in terms of a whole lifetime, or of an eternal future. Viewed in this way, the cost of entering the Christian life is seen as a negligible quantity when compared with what is offered to the disciple of Jesus."

"It costs a great deal to become and continue a Christian, but it costs a great deal more to refuse to be a Christian. For the intelligent inquirer, it is a matter of selecting the greatest good that can be achieved, and then exchanging abilities and time for that greatest good in the best way. And on this basis, there is no reasonable question about the value of what the Christian gains in exchange for what he gives up."

TOO MANY PEOPLE GETTING RELIGION FROM PHOTOPLAY, SAYS REV. PERRY SCHROCK

"More people attended a certain Santa Ana theater last Monday than attended all of the churches of the city on the day before—Sunday. It was too hot to go to church on Sunday. But it was hotter on Monday. And no church in our city was as hot as that theater was on Monday afternoon. I know, for I was at church on Sunday and I attended the theater on Monday."

So spoke the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock in the First Congregational church, last night. He was speaking upon the subject, "Hollywood's Translation of the Bible," a subject suggested by the moving picture, "Noah's Ark," which was shown in a Santa Ana theater last week. The Rev. Mr. Schrock said in part:

"The curious thing about it was that the theater was showing a Bible story. That was what drew the great crowd on a hot day. They came to see a Hollywood translation of a Bible story. The picture was a tremendous spectacle. But it was mighty poor religion. The difficulty is, however, that the religion taught in the picture was given in such an impressionable way that it is likely to stick in the minds of the people as the sort of thing that religious folks are teaching.

"Millions of Americans are getting their social, moral and religious ideas from the movies. And it does not promise well for our nation to have its citizens fed upon such intellectual food. This picture is a good illustration of what I mean. In this picture God is outside his world. He manifests Himself in the unusual and the spectacular. Storms, catastrophes, etc., are an evidence of the presence of God. The good always win and the evil always come to a bad end. In the saving of God's favorite it matters not if a few thousand innocent children are slain."

"In our time God uses war instead of floods. He has become modern. The whole idea of God in the picture is primitive heathenism. Now the difficulty is that the Christian idea of God as Spirit, within his world, does not lend itself to spectacular presentation in a movie. There is nothing startling in God helping a man live a clean, decent, upright life. It is more dramatic to picture God smiting his enemies than a man loving his enemy—or his neighbor as himself. Let us enjoy the movie as entertainment but let us not take it as our religious guide."

'THREE BIBLES' IS SUBJECT OF REV. HARDING

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, took for his subject at the morning service yesterday, "My Three Bibles." He declared that there was a greater attack against the Bible today than for many years—not by avowed atheists or infidels, but a subtle attack on the word of God, using modern methods, which are more to be feared than the method used by Tom Paine or Bob Ingersoll. It is infidelity under the cloak of doubt, according to the minister.

"The discussion over the Bible in public schools throws a shadow of doubt around the Holy Word of God, and whether we have it or not, the enemies have accomplished their desire when they place a question mark over that Holy Book."

The pastor spoke against picture companies and playwrights advertising Bible characters and using Bible names, saying it makes the Scripture too common. "It should be revered above all books for it contains the word of God. The reading publicly of the various translations was at least confusing to the average congregation and inquiring young people. The Bible needs to be re-read and not rewritten. It should be practiced and not picked at."

"The three Bibles of which I refer in the text are not three different books, but the difference was in me," continued the Rev. Mr. Harding. "My Bible before my conversion, my Bible after my conversion and my Bible after receiving the baptism with the Holy Spirit."

"I tried to read the book through before I was converted. It was hard work for it was not interesting to me. I watched my father sit for hours and read it and decided it was age I needed, but I was wrong. I was converted at the age of 19 years and it was then that it became a different book. It is the spiritual revelation from God. It matters not what degree a man or woman may have, educationally, they cannot interpret the Bible without the spirit of Christ in their hearts.

"A great deal of the controversy today over the fundamentals is because persons have taught, preached and written their opinions on the word of God when they

BAPTISTS TOLD GREAT VALUES OF ASSEMBLY

The last of the combined evening services which have been held during the month of July by the young people and members of the regular congregation at the First Baptist church, was held in the church last night. A large attendance marked the popularity of the joint gatherings.

Taking the nature of a "booster" service, the program of the evening was devoted to the subject of the summer assembly to be held at the Pacific Palisades. The Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor, talked briefly on the subject, "Palisades: A Church Investment," and John Engeman, assistant camp manager, spoke on "The Offer of the Palisades Assembly."

The Rev. Mr. Owings urged upon parents the value of the assembly which is in reality a training school of religious education combined with Christian pleasure and recreation. The camp is each year one of the most progressive activities of the young people's church work and it is the goal of the minister and his associates to send at least 25 representative young folk to the Palisades. The minister announced that $175 had been raised for that purpose thus far.

Special music was furnished at the service by the Temple Baptist choir of Los Angeles and by the church quartet comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nalle, Mr. Johnston and Mrs. Blanch Owens.

never have been converted. Jesus said before his ascension, 'I go away. When the Holy Spirit is come, He will teach you all things. He will take the things of mine and show them to you.' No teacher or preacher is able to comment on this book until he has tarried for the endowment of power."

'CLOUDS' TOPIC OF ADDRESS BY RECTOR HATTER

"Countless thousands in the world today are praying for clouds. In this Southland we do not want the clouds that presage rain, because of the damage they would do. But in other parts of the world there is a drought such as has not been known in generations. In parts of Canada not 24 hours of rain in a year. No crops, distress everywhere. How they would welcome the rain clouds," prefaced the talk on "Clouds" by the Rev. W. J. Hatter, Rector of the Messiah, yesterday morning.

"In our lives we often live 'under the cloud,' the cloud that hides us from God or God from us. Some of us live under the cloud of resentment. Haman lived under such a cloud. He sought to be honored and because one Jew refused to bow down to him he resented it so strongly that he sought to destroy the whole Jewish nation. So also it was with Job, that mighty captain of David, he resented the coming of Abner and slew him. We in our resentment say we are going 'to get even,' we are going to pay them back. We live under that cloud. But it is wrong. We should be ready to forgive and forget. When the disciple asked of Jesus, should he forgive his brother seven times? 'Not seven times but seventy times seven' was the answer.

"A cloud of ignorance darkens the lives of many people. They do not know, despite the advantages of the present day. Suppose we could not read. We would be shut out of enjoying many things. But some who can and do read are ignorant. Remember, the things we do not know are our limits. We are ignorant of some of the greatest social problems, we have no knowledge of the real situation. If we knew, we would have a different attitude regarding the missionary problem. We would also have a different attitude in regard to the support of the church, if we knew the inside story of its needs."

'FRUIT BEARING' TOPIC OF TALK BY DR. WARNER

"Fruit Bearing" was the subject of the evening sermon, last night, in the First Methodist church, by Dr. George A. Warner, pastor. Taking his subject from a text, "I am the vine, ye are the branches," Dr. Warner developed his thoughts regarding the lives that bear fruit in the world along three points.

"We have to keep our contact avenues open in spiritual things; spiritual experiences are growing things; we must possess a willingness to pay the price in the course of success."

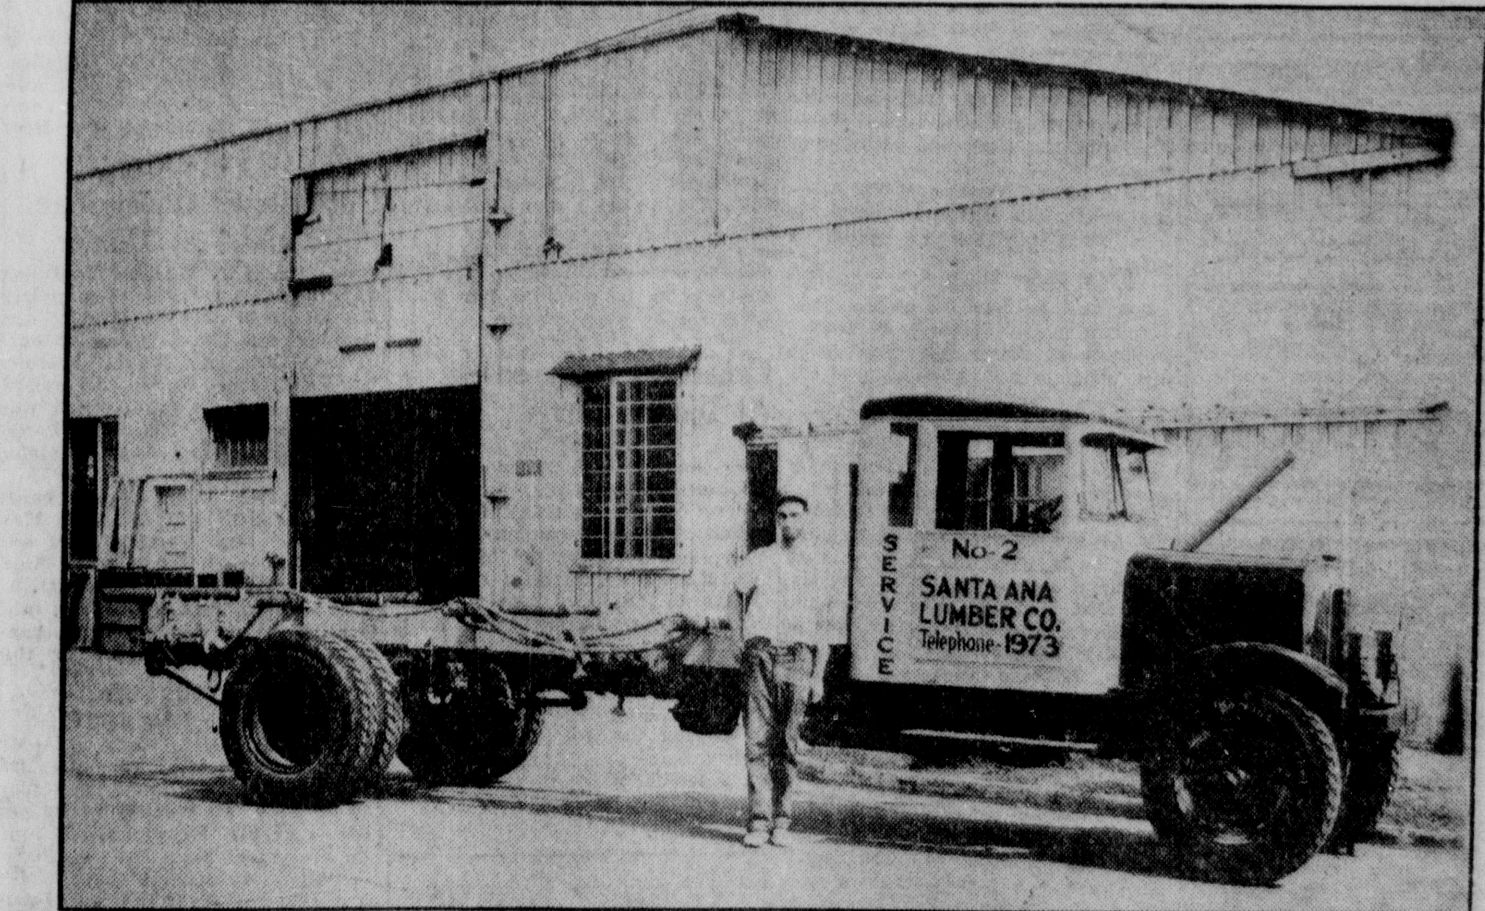

The large chorus choir under the direction of Mrs. Hulda Deltz, sang "Sun of My Soul" by Turner, and Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh sang a contralto solo. Theodore Winbiger told of his experiences abroad at the meeting of the high school Epworth league at 8:30 p. m.

At the morning hour of worship held at the church, the sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered by Dr. Warner. The choir again assisted by singing Matthews' "Father Once More Within Thy Holy Place," and Miss Lorene Crodgy gave a soprano solo, "O Divine Redeemer," by Gounod.

Get from under the cloud of ignorance.

"Another cloud is that of intemperance, the cloud of drugs, of nerve deadeners, of alcohol. The hospitals are filled with people under the influence of drugs. Intemperance clouds the finer perceptions. I am an advocate of temperance in the highest sense of the word. I believe in temperance in living, in eating, in drinking, in everything. You cannot legislate men into heaven. Get them from under the cloud that leads to intemperance in all things of life."

"Under the cloud of remorse nothing can be right for you until that wrong you have done is righted. Make restitution to the one you have wronged. If that is impossible confess your remorse. Go to God, trusting. He will help you get from under that black cloud."

One of the Fleet of Trucks That Santa Ana Lumber Co., Fourth and Artesia, Has in Service

"SERVICE IS OUR MOTTO"

The chore truck is one of a fleet of six, owned by the enterprising firm, the Santa Ana Lumber Co. This business has been in existence since 1921 and, needless to say, progress has been the watchword of this body of men since starting. Today they can boast of carrying every variety of building material, such as Lumber, Cement, Plaster, etc. They handle their own millwork, enabling them to build your home from the foundation to completion. They take pride in stating they furnished all the millwork and lumber for the beautiful Builders Exchange building, also the Smith building, on Main street between Third and Fourth, also the Tusin and Garden Grove schools. The material on a $200,000 job at Yuma, Arizona, is being furnished by the Santa Ana Lumber Co. The delivery is taken care of by their own trucks. Diamond Tires being used exclusively by this firm, the places they are driven and the rough driving they are forced to stand, speaks in the highest terms for these wonderful tires, so say the officials of the Santa Ana Lumber Co. When a tire is on a building material truck used for delivery, it has about as hard usage as any tire ever had. Backing over rough curbing and sidewalks is just one of the many things it must stand. "Diamonds have stood the test and we are well satisfied with them, to say nothing about the efficient service of Herbert L. Miller," so say the officials of this lumber company.

McWaters-Lutz Nuptials Held Saturday at U. P. Church

The United Presbyterian church of this city, brightened by a profusion of lovely summer blossoms in many gay tints, was the setting Saturday night for a pretty midsummer wedding when Miss Dora McWaters, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McWaters, became the bride of Everett Lutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Lutz.

As friends of the young couple assembled in the church, Harry Warren, presiding at the organ, played a number of lovely selections that included Cadman's ever beautiful "At Dawning." He also played the accompaniment for Mrs. Henry Johnson whose clear soprano was heard in "Because."

As Mr. Warren swung into the strains of Lohengrin, the groom and his best man, John Lutz, accompanied by the Rev. E. W. Matz, who read the service in the absence of the Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor of the church, entered before the altar where they awaited the coming of the bride and her attendants.

The charming bride who entered the church upon the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, was gown in white satin made with a snug bodice and long full skirt. Her graceful tulle veil was caught to her head by a bandeau of seed pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white rose buds, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern.

Mrs. Donald Short of Ocean Park, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and she wore a becoming frock of yellow taffeta with which she carried a bouquet of golden rose buds.

Mrs. Joseph Fratis of Berkeley and Miss Catherine McMullen, sorority sisters of the bride, were her other attendants. They were gown in salmon and chartreuse green taffetas made with long ruffled skirts and they carried bouquets of pink sweet peas and maidenhair fern.

The ushers were Howard Lutz, brother of the groom, and Henry Johnson.

Dinner at St. Ann's Following the wedding, the bridal party was entertained at a smartly appointed dinner at St. Ann's Inn. A beautiful bouquet of pink and white blossoms formed the color theme for all appointments.

For a honeymoon at Carmel-by-the-Sea, the bride donned a smart little ensemble in tones of brown with accessories to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Lutz will make their home at Garden Grove where Mr. Lutz is managing his father's orange ranch.

Both young people attended and graduated from the Santa Ana high school and junior college and the University of California at Berkeley where Mr. Lutz was a member of the track team. Mrs. Lutz was a member of the Alpha Delta Theta sorority and her husband was affiliated with the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. The pretty bride has been secretary at the Santa Ana high school for some time and she expects to continue her work there for at least a year.

The program consisted of speeches and stories. Louis Allen told of his trip to Catalina. Mr. and Mrs. Stockbridge of their trip to the northern part of the state and William Saunby, the teacher, voiced his appreciation for the good attendance of the class. The stories were given by L. V. Meyers, William O'Hara, Miss Holt, W. A. Taylor and Mr. Allen.

The class voted to send a bouquet in token of her birthday to Mrs. G. W. Miller, who has been ill a long time.

Next month the class will meet with Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Robinson at Newport Beach.

Clubs Fashions WOMAN'S PAGE Weddings Household

By Louise Stephenson

The WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

The "ideal husband" was recently found by the sociology department of Pennsylvania state college aided by 100 graduates of the University of Kansas.

Baroness of that rare avia, the husband ideal, seem to be that he must take his due and just care of the children; must be a plumber; not forget how to make love; comfortably provide; manage the furnace; not argue; control his temper; take care of the garbage, and take care of plumbing leaks.

HIS TURN

An ideal husband investigation is much rarer than the ideal wife one. Ministers and writers are constantly discussing the qualities of wifehood and making demands even more arduous than combining the efficiency of a good plumber with that of a good father. It

HAS FOURTEEN OF HER FRIENDS TAKING SARGON

"Six Bottles Were Worth More to Me Than a Square Block of Downtown Property," She Says

"Six bottles of Sargon have been worth more to me than a square block of downtown property and I wouldn't exchange the good I've gotten out of this wonderful medicine for it. I've gained nine pounds and feel like I never had a sick day in my life."

MRS. RALPH BEDOYA

"My telephone number is Chicago 2354, and anyone who will phone me, I'll be glad to tell them about Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills. I believe in the Golden Rule, so I want to help others who may be suffering like I used to."

"There couldn't have been a worse case in Los Angeles than mine. Only those who have gall bladder trouble can understand the sharp, shooting pains I suffered day and night, all through my back and stomach and kidneys. What little I forced myself to eat would sour on my stomach and cause bloating pains that almost doubled me up in agony. Cold sweats, then chills and fever, would follow and I would just have to go to bed, I was so weak. I had headaches and dizzy spells from my sluggish liver, and I was so constipated that even the strongest purgatives would soon lose their effect and leave me worse off than ever. My nerves were highstrung, I fell off in weight and was in such a run-down condition that I couldn't do my housework or care for the children like I should. I spent a lot of money but nothing ever really helped me, and it just looked like I wasn't going to get any better."

"I don't know what I would have done if it hadn't been for Sargon. It gave me a splendid appetite and now, for the first time in years, I can eat as I please and never have a sign of trouble with my stomach. That gall bladder trouble has gone away and there's not an ache or pain left in my body. I strengthened up wonderfully and my housework doesn't seem a burden any more. I'm no longer nervous and I'm so much better in every way that I feel like a new person."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills got my liver active again as nature intended and I am entirely relieved of constipation. I don't have those terrible headaches or dizzy spells any more either. Thanks to this Sargon treatment I am well and happy again."

"Words can't express how I feel towards Sargon. I have fourteen of my friends taking this wonderful medicine now and I give it to the children also. I just can't praise it enough."

The above grateful statement was made recently by Mrs. Ralph Bedoya, 3371 Princeton St., Los Angeles. Mrs. Bedoya is the mother of four children, belongs to the Congregational church, and is highly regarded by her many friends.

is only fair that they go gunning for the "ideal husband" occasionally, making the male spouse realize that efficiency is demanded of him in that relationship, as much as of the wife.

DON'T HAVE TO BE

The rarity of "ideal husband" investigations only reminds us again that it's much easier to get by as a husband than as a wife; that the former are in so much greater demand than the latter that most women ask little more than that they have just "a husband," let alone an "ideal husband."

SHOVEL OR BROOM?

The investigation reminds us too, that the much vaunted "home duties" of married women who argue that because they labor for hire in an office all day they should not be expected to cook meals and wash dishes at night, rather pale into insignificance when contrasted with "the home duties" of a married man, and one hears surprisingly few of them complain that they must carry on at a business desk all day and come home at night to mow the lawn or put up screens or rake out the furnace ashes.

They happen to be used to two irons in the fire. Working married ladies aren't.

FRIENDSHIPS

Two old ladies of Lisbon, O. who had been close companions since the death of their husbands, died within a few hours of each other, the other day, shock from grief being given as cause of death of the woman who died last.

Such rich affection between friends is becoming rarer and rarer. Is it the busy life, the poisonous ideas of an age familiar with pathological phenomena once reserved for the medie, or are we too selfish and individualistic to have time for or need friends?

Still, a companionship so all-in-all that life could not be endured one without the other is as bad for the individual as to much self-sufficiency.

HUSBANDS BEFORE PRISONS

A prisoner in a state penitentiary recently received a wire telling him to come home at once as his wife was dying from a rattlesnake bite. The interest in the incident does not lie in the rattlesnake bite, but in the fact that society so puts the human relationship of husband and wife first that a social relationship of state and prisoner is not even considered when the first relationship is threatened. What's more, prisoners are generally released long enough to visit their close sick and dying, proving that even the state realizes what comes first.

CUPID AND LAW

Oh yes, and here's a news story called "Cupid Breaks Into Pen." It seems that Mrs. Norma Boesche, 48, serving a 15-year sentence in the Texas penitentiary for women, will soon marry G. Lewis Harrington who finished his sentence a few days ago. Governor Moody has been asked for a parole as a wedding present.

He'll probably give it. Again the law will bow to the human equation.

Deep Apple Pie—Something to Live For!

If you have never eaten Deep Apple Pie you have something left to live for!

Deep Apple Pie is one of the standbys of the British cuisine, but more like a pudding than the pie sacred to the memory of early Americana.

One eats it with cream and uses both dessert spoon and fork in the operation. To make it use a pan not less than three inches deep, straight sided, and as large as you think necessary.

In the middle put a slim glass (to hold up the canopy of pastry) and fill around it with thinly sliced green apples, sugared to taste. Over the apples put a layer of ripe black berries or logan berries, sugar them, and drape a thin crust of rich pastry over the top. Bake very leisurely and serve cold. Use 3 cups of sliced apples to each cup of berries.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Tomato Fritters

2 eggs, well beaten
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup sour milk, or thin sour cream
1-2 teaspoon soda
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
Firm ripe tomatoes, peeled and cut in thick slices.

Those who like tomatoes will welcome this delightful way of serving them. Then, too, this recipe offers a double service in its vegetable and the pancake which takes the place of the inevitable potato.

Scald and peel the tomatoes and cut in slices one-third of an inch thick. Sprinkle them with salt and set aside while—

The eggs are beaten light with the salt and sugar. Add the soda to the sour milk and when it foams up add to the eggs and sift in the flour and baking powder. Whip well.

Have an iron skillet heated and lightly buttered; drop in spoonfuls of batter, press a slice of tomato into each cake and brown both sides of the cake nicely.

Wouldn't these tomato pancakes be delicious for mornings when the family tummy cries out for more than toast and coffee? Crisp bacon with them, of course!

Allowing 400 calories for 4 large tomatoes the total for the full recipe is 1130. To this add at least 400 more calories for the fat used in cooking the cakes, and divide the total of 1530 among four or five people.

Italian sweets is the title of the current leaflet. When I was deciding which of these delectable desserts I would choose for dinner I got side-tracked among some sandwiches and in they went, even though they do not belong in a dessert leaflet—they were too good to leave out!

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a copy of Italian Sweets, offered free this week only.

Veal is probably the least expensive of meats right now, so tomorrow I am giving a recipe for preparing a sum'shus Veal Pot-roast.

Fox Broadway

"Behind That Curtain," a Scotland Yard tale of mystery, which comes to the Fox Broadway for four days beginning today, unites in a dramatic design love and intrigue which took place in the widely separated places—San Francisco, India and England. The film is taken from the story written by Earl Derr Biggers, well known author who wrote "The Seven Keys to Baldpate," and other mystery plays. Irving Cummings, Warner Baxter and Lois Moran have leading roles in the production.

Fox Walker

One of the leading banks of Los Angeles was used to furnish scenes for the Vitaphone picture, "The Gambler," which comes to the Fox Walker theater today for a three days' run.

Gambling with money belonging to some one else is the theme around which is built a powerful and dramatic production. How deeply seated in the human heart is the desire to gamble, is brought out in the course of the play by a carefully selected cast which includes Lois Wilson, Pauline Garon, George Fawcett and Jason Roberts.

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY NAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The Tintles watched the circus men run 'round about and back again. It seemed they all were busy. There was heaps and heaps to do. "I'll bet," said Scouty, "they will be so fagged out they can hardly see. No wonder circus people like to sleep when they are through."

Just then they heard a gruff voice shout, "Hey there, you Tinymites. Turn out and help us pitch this monstrous tent. It's quite a puzzling task. You're small, but you can help a bit. Grab stakes and try to make them fit down in the round real snugly. Hurry now. That's all we ask!"

"Sure thing," yelled Scouty. "We will aid, and show that we are not afraid of good hard work. Bring on the stakes. We'll stick them in the ground." Some men then brought the stakes nearby. Wee Clowny looked on with a sigh. Oh, my, he thought, it's my bad luck when work like this is found.

But everyone picked up an axe

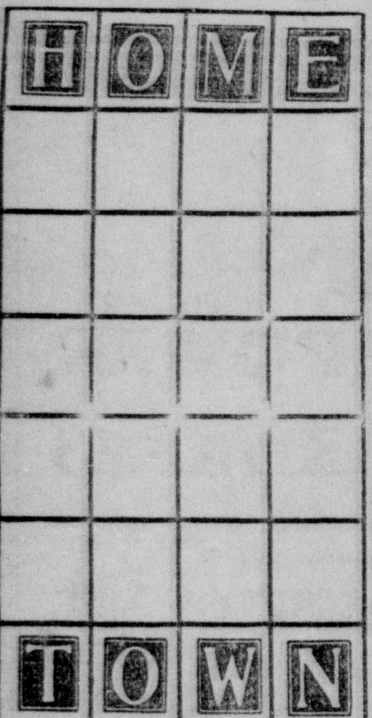

Missing Letter Links

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

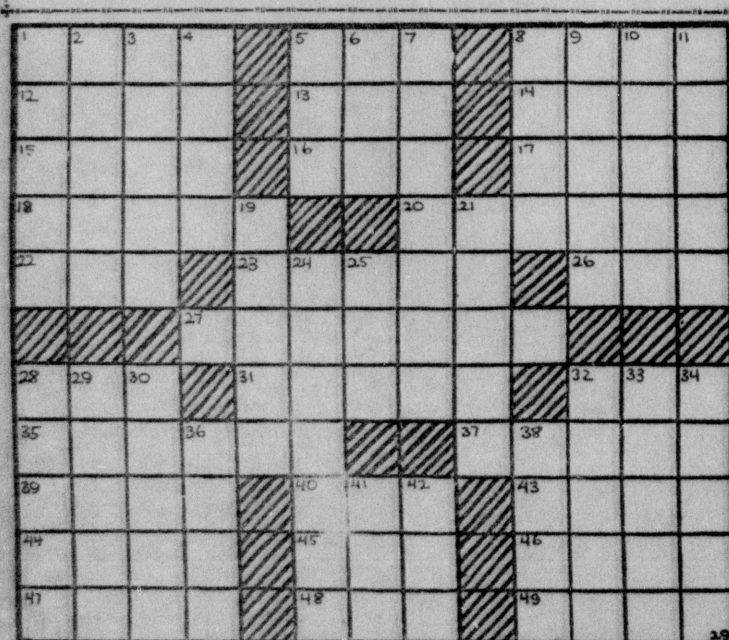

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

NEWSPAPER SERVICE

No newspaper should permit its readers to pass over lightly the story of the public service rendered by two Cleveland newspaper men who were fined $500 and sentenced to thirty days in jail for fighting against a race track gambling ring. Judge Walther of Cleveland issued an injunction to prohibit Sheriff E. J. Hanratty from interfering with the Thistle-down race track, where the anti-gambling laws were being circumvented. In spite of the Judge's order, Sheriff Hanratty closed the race track, pointing out that he was not prohibited from taking such action if the betting system in vogue was illegal. The sheriff acted, however, only after the press had repeatedly carried articles denouncing the race track and its officials. After the race track had been closed, the newspaper carried several editorials denouncing the injunction action of the judge and supporting the action of the sheriff in closing the Thistle-down race track.

Then the Judge had the two editors, Louis B. Seltzer and Carlton K. Matson, cited for contempt of court and sentenced them, declaring that the court had inherent authority to determine whether contempt had been committed.

"This case," said Attorney Marcellus de Vaughn, associated with Newton D. Baker in defending the newspaper men, "is of far larger moment than in its relationship to Mr. Seltzer and Mr. Matson. If Judge Walther's decision is upheld by the highest courts—and we shall carry appeal to the United States supreme court, if necessary—... it will mean that any judge may issue an edict that is shamefully contrary to the public good and that the newspapers may not inform the public of the terrible wrong that is being done to them."

In a statement which the two editors, prepared for the press, they said:

"The principle for which we were fighting was that of justice. We made our comment in what we thought was the furtherance of justice, not its hindrance.

This is a plain case of the freedom of the press to criticize court orders which it regards as lawless. The order which was the crux of the case before Judge Walther in common pleas court was an order which purported to restrain an officer of the law from doing his plain duty.

Journalism is still a profession. Considerations of right and honor make it that.

There comes a time when a word of common honesty, without consideration of hazard, is the greatest contribution a newspaper can make to its community.

For the right to speak that word, we have fought and we intend to fight. Newspapermen everywhere in this country would do the same thing.

In every city room, in every editorial office of the country, the conflict against the newspaper expression goes on. The newspaper always faces the pressure which demands suppression.

If fact or comment can be easily suppressed, can be suppressed at all, the usefulness of the newspaper as an organ of public opinion, is gone.

If fact or comment upon one matter, whether it be news of public events or proper comment upon the activities of courts can be suppressed, any story or comment is likely to be suppressed.

If such comes about, the clear vision and sense of obligation to his public of the newspaperman becomes obscured. The newspaperman then is no longer a newspaperman; he becomes only a pamphleteer with a private interest to serve.

In this conflict over suppression, there comes the time when the newspaperman has to be the final judge. He has to meet the issue that the statement of a fact and the comment upon that fact is his obligation to his community."

What's wrong with this sentence: "I would buy this myself if I had your capital."

THE PLAYGROUND TOURNAMENT

The Supervisor of Summer Playgrounds in Santa Ana has arranged a tennis tournament which begins today on the courts at the high school.

The real purpose of the tournament seems to be to bring together the tennis players of the city to get them acquainted with each other, and to increase interest in this splendid sport. The games will be played after working or office hours, so that all may have an opportunity to enter.

In order that all classes of players may be accommodated, the players will be divided into three classes. Class A includes experienced players; Class B, those who play occasionally, or wish to resume the sport, and Class C, for beginners. No player should hesitate to enter one of these classes and either begin or keep alive his interest in tennis.

Here is a game which can be played by young and old as well as those between. There is no other game in which all may take part with so little cost in money or time as tennis. It does not require membership in a necessarily expensive club or large fees. The equipment is inexpensive, and the exercise and pleasure is out of all proportion to the expenditure.

This tournament will be what is called a round robin, where every player in any class meets every other player in that class, and the winner is decided by the number of sets won.

There is every good reason why present, past and future players should take advantage of this opportunity to get acquainted with each other.

THE FEAT OF THE BREMEN

To the North German Lloyd line goes the honor of having the fastest ship on the sea. That record has usually been made by a Cunarder, and we cannot quite see why the Cunard line, which has a most enviable record for security (no passenger has ever been lost in the long history), for comfort, and for fleetness, permitted the honor to go to a German line. The fact is that the Germans have been doing some great things since their defeat in the war. In aviation they are very nearly at the front. While they have not yet made a success of trans-Atlantic transport in their Zeppelins, it is but a matter of time when they will. The economic comeback of Germany since the war is one of the marvels of history. Here was a nation which was beaten to its knees, loaded with an impossible indemnity, for a time shut off from communication with the world, some of its most valuable provinces and resources taken from her. And yet she is prospering. Her shipping is about what it was before the war. Her trade is again reaching the ends of the earth. "Made in Germany" has become as common as before the war.

All of which goes to show that an efficient people cannot be kept down. The speed record of the Bremen is but one of many things which reveals the efficiency and the resourcefulness of the German mind and hand. That a nation so efficient should, through a haughty and a vainglorious leadership have fallen into the depths of humiliation and despair is one of the great tragedies of history. It would seem, however, that the lesson of bitter experience has been learned. From defeat Germany may rise to a greater nation, and its people may yet rise to the leadership of the world in all those departments of life which call for intellectual leadership, for thoroughness, and for perseverance and hard work.

We here in America have gone in for standardization and for mass production. For the time being it is giving up the leadership in the trade of the world. But we hesitate somewhat when we think what it is doing to the minds of many of our people. To stand for eight hours, or even for five hours, at a machine, and do nothing but tighten a screw or lift a lever has a most deadening effect upon the individual. In the long run a nation of self-sufficient and self-reliant men and women will get farther than a nation which converts its humans into mere machines. We can teach the nations of the world much, but they have also something they can teach us.

But a Cloud Came at Noon

Oakland Tribune

It was breathlessly warm and the weight of the sun was weary on the countryside. The leaves of trees caught the ardent glow of him, and were themselves of a brightness that could not quite be faced. There was a petulance in the calling of crows, and when one took wing the archer smote the bird to black fire. Nor was there any stir in the air, nor any ripple on the water. The lake, too, gave back the sun so brightly that the lake might not be looked upon, for the far blueness of it was flame. From rippling hay, and yellowing grass, and brown field, and gray rock, rose the visible temper of the day, in waves that fluttered like fire and were transparencies of silver. And all the steeples were drab with dust and beneath it the quail were panting. For the day was given over to the sun, and the day was the sun's own. He was near to noon, was the sun, and the day was breathlessly warm.

There is a brightness of water that is too bright to endure. There is a certain silence that is the burdensome, cruel stillness of heat. In this brilliancy of silence, and through the brightness of it, there is but little that moves, and this moves laggingly. For cattle will seek the pools of shadow that are sparsely gathered beneath the trees, to stand motionless while flowers wither to the sun that brought them into being. You may not look upon the sun, nor his near vicinity, nor where his radiance falls. The eyes will tire soon, and a hunger for the whisperings of a breeze in the branches. Hasten, sun. Fare downward toward evening and suffer the night to return, the night that bathes the weary countenance of things as with cool water, and wakes the leaves again, and to the grasses yields her dew. And let there be a star again above the cottonwoods, and a mist over the river. For we have tired of the sun.

But a cloud came to high heaven. A cloud drew in from westward, gray as the drift of the beaches—the stroke of a vast brush across the bowl of sky. Then all the company of trees, that green sisterhood of elm, and cottonwood, and willow, roused them to murmur as their leaves stirred to the coming. The brightness of the lake was fretted by the foot-fall of the breeze, and the wind walked over the water to claim it shore to shore. The fringes of the cloud had reached the sun, and through them he shone dimly. Off to riverward the glistening greenness of the verdure was quenched by the coming of the cloud, and a cool darkness, in which was violet, rested where the sun had fallen. And the cloud claimed the province of the sun and shut him away from the world. There is no gladness like that of shadow. With wind on the water, and the trees swaying to the wind, and the gulls blown by the wind, and crows joyous. After the heat of the sun.

So a cloud came to the day, a sending of cloud, and from westward it came, where is the coolness of the sea. It was the gray as drift of the sea, and it shut the sun from the land. Do you know, you who may sometime have wearied of cloud, that the spires of the steepleshadow are brightest in shadow? It drew pleasantly on toward evening, and when the sun was gone a star was kindled. What was it that children used to say? Something about a wish, it was. Star, star, burning bright...—Portland Oregonian.

Throwing Autos Away

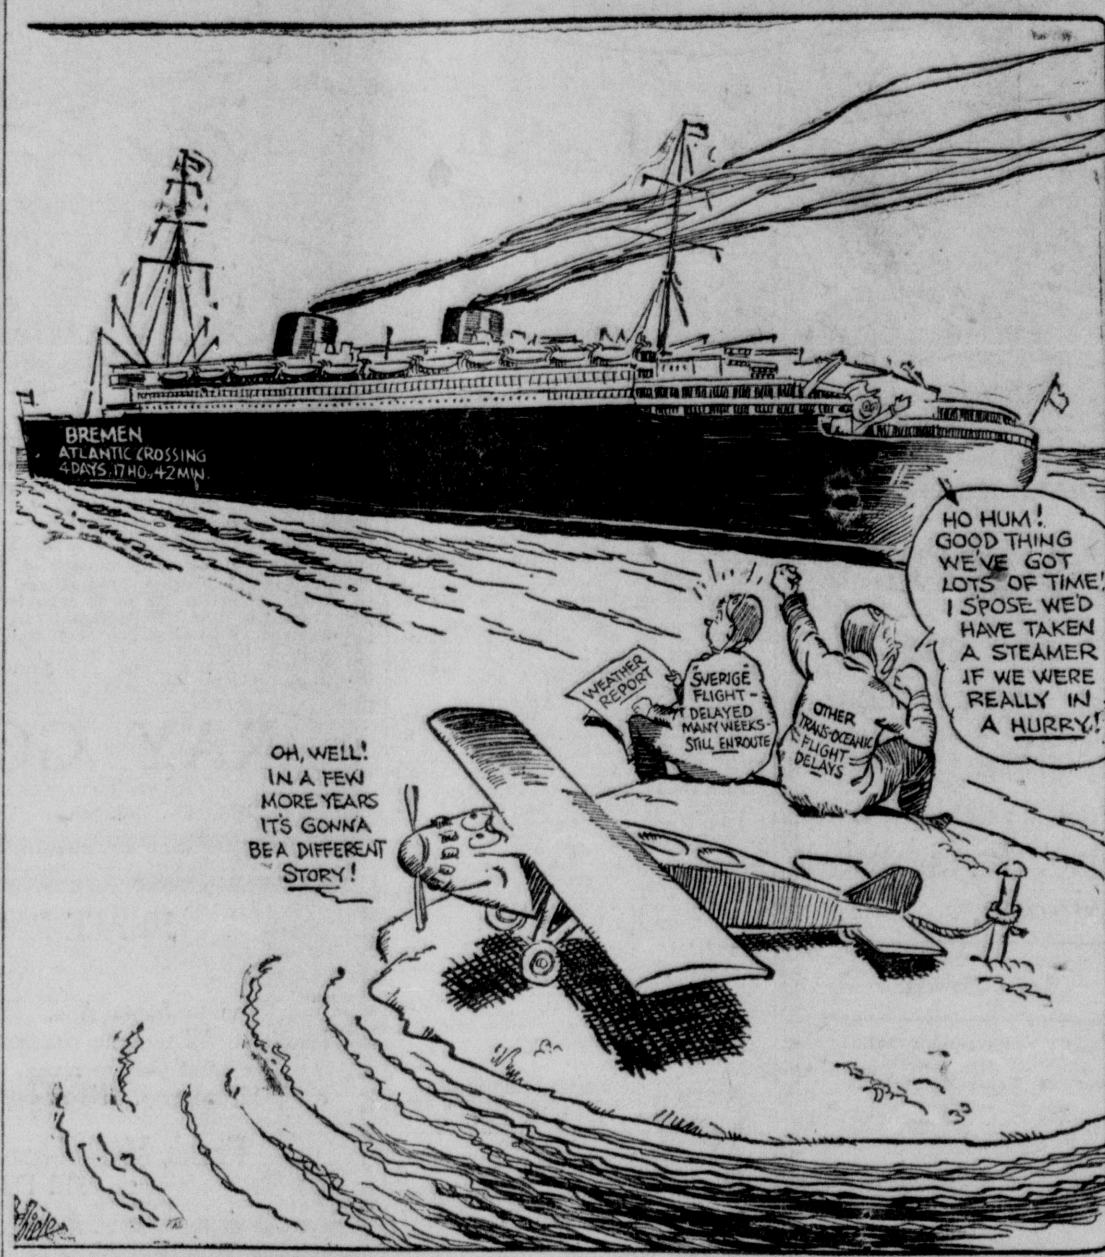

Riverside Daily Press

The facetious question, "What on earth becomes of all the old autos?" has been current ever since old automobile age began. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, looking into the matter, has the answer; they get tossed on to the scrap heap.

Every year the United States scrapes 2,450,000 automobiles—one-tenth of the entire number in the country. Indeed, the American people are throwing away, annually, one-third as many autos as there are in use in all the rest of the world.

The Chamber of Commerce points out, incidentally, that the average life of an automobile in this country is about six years and nine months. Which, when you consider the automobile's cheap price, isn't a bad record at all.

The Hare And The Tortoise!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

AN ESSAY ON LIFE

The armadillo does no harm
His ways are filled with simple charm.

His food is chiefly useless plants
And worse than useless swarming ants.

And of shell are built his clothes
To save him from destructive foes.

The turtle is a kindly brute
Who is not avid nor astute

But basks beneath the sunlit sky
To watch the river wimple by

The while he smiles a cheerful smile
Devoid of art or craft or guile.

Yet he must pull his tail and pate
Inside a hide of armor plate

For fear the brutes which lurk about
Will seize upon and pull them out.

And you and I, who have no will
To steal or burglarize or kill

Must constantly abide in fear
Of gangman, crook or racketeer.

Which seems to prove that being good
Will never get you what it should.

ETERNALLY BUSY

Somebody has called the gangsters the new idle rich. But unfortunately they are too rarely idle.

NO PROTESTS

Apparently the social arbiters at the Court of St. James were satisfied with the Dawes plan.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

More That Every Salesman Knows

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

"All business needs," said the Salesman in the smoking room of the Pullman car, "is enough buyers."

"But why," asked the man in the corner, "is there ever any lack of buyers?"

"Let the Porter tell us," suggested the Salesman. Then to the Porter, who was shambling out of the room in an old pair of shoes, the Salesman called: "Why haven't you got a new pair of shoes, George?"

"Nobody ain't left none on my car, suh."

"Then why don't you buy a new pair?"

"Ain't got money enough, suh. That's all the reason."

"Don't your tips average high enough?"

"Average is powerful good, suh. Average tip's a dollar; but, Lordy, ain't got so much as that but once all winter."

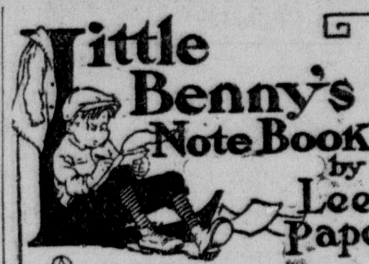

"There you are," chuckled the Salesman. "The Porter doesn't have to take a course in economics to answer that question."

Neither does anybody else. We all know why we haven't stimulated producers to make more goods. Solely because our incomes have not allowed us that pleasure.

That tells the whole story. As a matter of fact, fluctuations in the dollar volume of retail sales are almost the same as fluctuations in the dollar volume of wages.

But nobody needs statistics to convince him that the buying of wage-earners increases about as rapidly as their incomes. Statistics merely confirm what everybody knows.

This afternoon I didn't feel like asking Ma for any more money on account of her having given me so much already this week I knew what she would probably say, and I was watching her sewing on her sewing machine and I sed, Hay Ma if I had a million dollars do you know what's the first thing I would do with it?

Buy a few acres of candy or ice cream cones or something equally brilliant, I suppose, Ma sed.

No mam, nothing like it, your all wrong, I sed. If I had a million dollars the first thing I'd do with it would be to give you some of it, I sed.

Well now that would be very thawtful of you and Im sure Id appreciate it, Ma sed.

Yes mam, and I dont mean Id just give you a little of it, Id give you all you wanted, thats how much Id give you, and in case you got bashful and was afraid to take more than about a thousand dollars why I tell you what Id do then, Id make you take half, I sed.

Goodness, all that? Ma sed, and I sed, Yes mam, so then you'd have a half a million dollars.

So I would, It makes me feel quite rich, hee hee, Ma sed, and I sed, And whats more you could do whatever you wanted with it. I wouldn't even ask you what you was going to do with it you could borrow as much more as you felt like, and if you spent it all insted of paying it back, what would I care.

How wonderful, now thats about all the sudden riches I can stand in one shock, so suppose you go out and play, Ma sed, and I sed, Well hay, Ma, can I have 5 cents?

Yes, take it out of the other half million, hee hee, Ma sed.

Meaning I couldn't and proving she thawt I had gave her all that imaginary money just to get the 5 cents.

Wich I had.

BLESS THE MACHINES

Stuart Chase, in his "Men and Machines," has given us a singularly clear picture of the Machine Age which is making and molding our lives.

It is a fact-filled book and its theorizing does not wander far from its facts. The whole discussion heads up in a triple verdict on the Machine Age which, today want to summarize under the titles "Bless the Machines," "Damn the Machines," and "The Machine's Double Life." Neither the clearly good, nor the clearly bad, nor the contradictory results to which Mr. Chase points are wholly chargeable to the machine, but they are results that have come out of the Machine Age as a whole.

We may bless the machines, directly and indirectly, for the following good results:

First, the men of the Machine Age are healthier and live longer than their ancestors. In the span of two generations in America, where the machine has seen its greatest development, the span of life has been lengthened by one-third as a result of medical and mechanical controls.

Second, the men of the Machine Age enjoy a higher living standard than their ancestors of the pre-machine days enjoyed. At least more commodities are available to more people than ever before.

Third, the men of the Machine Age realize, as their ancestors could not, that the whole world is essentially a unit socially and economically. Mechanical devices have brought the ends of the earth into such close touch that the illusion of separateness is no longer possible. If this modern interdependent world is injured at any point it quivers entire.

Fourth, the men of the Machine Age have shorter working hours and longer leisure.

Fifth, the men of the Machine Age are inevitably less superstitious and more scientific than their ancestors. Even the uneducated man who runs and repairs an automobile is taught to expect a natural and controllable cause when he sees an undesirable effect.

Sixth, the men of the Machine Age, in the act of making and mastering their machines, are schooled in self-confidence and a sense of power.

Seventh, the men of the Machine Age, face to face with the wear and tear of the modern factory, have worked out accurate tests of how long a man can work without fatigue poisons hurting him and his output, thus creating a kind of humane control no other age has known.

Eighth, the men of the Machine Age are not bound by class distinctions that rested on land ownership and patents of nobility.

Ninth, the men of the Machine Age, in their need of the fruits of applied science, have given fresh and far-reaching impetus to research in pure science which underlies applied science.

Tenth, the men of the Machine Age have a reader and wider sympathy than their ancestors, not because they are fundamentally different, but because rapid transportation, lightning-like communication, and press pictures in reel and rotogravure have brought the appeal of suffering across the world to their breakfast tables.

For all these things, bless the machines!

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

INTERRUPTED PLAY

"Now you children run along and play. And don't call me for anything short of a fire for I want to get this work done. Don't interrupt me. Now remember. Yesterday you called me about fifty times for nothing at all. I don't want to be interrupted."

"All right mother."

The children went out to the vacant lot nearby where they were building a hut and its belongings—tunnels and chimneys and gardens and wells and all the other joyful accessories. Fred was up on the roof struggling to make two rolled out tomato cans into a chimney stack and he had just succeeded in making the two edges lap on one section when his mother called, "F-r-r-red-d-e-e."

"All right," Fred struggled on with the slippery tin and the wiggle wire and forgot all about that call.

"F-r-r-red-d-e-e. Come right over here. How many times you expect me to call you. Come right over here. This minute. You hear me?"

"I'm coming."

He let go the wire and the tin and they clattered to the ground. Fred strode off in bad humor. "What you want?"

"That's a nice way to speak to your mother. And me trying to give you a treat. Working my head off to get ready to make you some ice cream for dinner. And you make yourself deaf when I call you. And grumble. Here. Go down to the store and bring me a bag of rock salt. And hurry."

Fred flew. The sooner he got that salt the sooner he could set that chimney and they simply must make a fire in that hut tonight.

Of course that spoiled all the fun inside the house and out. You cannot interrupt a child's play and expect him to be harmoniously happy. Once started on his idea his whole being, body and spirit surges ahead full speed. When you stop him it is like tossing a wrench into the machinery. It is not to be done save in emergency.

The boy was right to demand the errands be listed and done in their proper time. Mother did not want to be interrupted and forbade the children to do so but she did not think that they had the same dread of broken threads as she had. Plan the day and let the play time, and the work time, go on serenely and smoothly without interruption. Interruptions are a pain in the mind.

ALABAMA SAILS FOR U. S.

On July 29, 1862, the "Alabama," the second cruiser built in England for the confederates, sailed from Liverpool, despite protests by United States representatives.

The cruiser was of 900 tons burden, 230 feet in length, 32 feet in breadth, 20 feet in depth, and drew, when provisioned and coaled for cruise, 15 feet of water.

The ship was built and launched at Liverpool and immediately became an object of suspicion because of the consul of the United States at that port. He finally succeeded in obtaining proof of the violation of the Foreign Enlistment act, but before the British authorities took action, the cruiser had sailed away.

The "Alabama," equipped with a 300 horse power engine, large fore and aft sails and carrying eight guns, proceeded to the Azores, where she took on additional supplies and men.

She then made a flying trip to the United States and cruising up and down the Atlantic seaboard sunk a number of federal gunboats.

The "Alabama" was finally sunk by the federal steamer, "Kearsarge," a short distance off the coast of France in June, 1864.

JULY 29, 1915

When the Severance club of Los Angeles visited the Palisades tavern at Newport Beach, there was in the party United States Senator John D. Works, whose visit to the popular resort was expected to bring big things for this section.

Announcement was made that a new city gardener was to be appointed at the adjourned meeting of the city park commission to succeed W. J. Van Der Bruggen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Duckett had their Ford car stolen while attending the West End theater.
